County Water Project Advances in Washington
PLANS GO TO OFFICE OF MARKHAM
Addis Ababa 'Digs In' For War

Army Engineers' Chief Scheduled To Pass Upon Proposal
APPROVED BY TWO
Word Of Latest Action Obtained By Mitchell From Lyon Today

Orange county's $11,600,000 flood control project was forwarded today to Maj.-Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of engineers of the war department, according to word obtained by John C. Mitchell, chairman of the board of supervisors, who recently returned from Washington, D. C.

Chairman Mitchell obtained the information in a telephone conversation with Supervisor LeRoy Lyon, who accompanied him to the capital and remained when Chairman Mitchell was recalled to vote on the county budget after its first passage by a 2-to-1 vote had been declared illegal.

Prospects Bright
Supervisor Lyon to Chairman Mitchell that the prospect of Orange county securing an outright grant of approximately $7,000,000 for the project through the army engineering department is considerably brighter with the project having been approved by every department to date.

Approved several weeks ago by General Jackson, San Francisco, division engineer of the United States army, the project was sent to Washington for final approval. Since its arrival the project has been in the office of Captain Claves, first assistant to General Markham, who has gone through the plans, specifications and cost estimates.

Approved by Captain Claves and forwarded to General Markham, the next step after approval by the chief of engineers is to the allotment board and then to President Roosevelt for final approval.

To Call Bond Vote
When the allotment finally is made it will be necessary for the board of supervisors to call a bond election for approval of bonds covering Orange county's share of the expense. The election ordinance has been prepared, leaving blank the date for the election and the amount of money to be raised.

Doubts as to the success of this county's application for federal funds to aid the project have been removed through elimination of two factors that might have militated against it. The protest filed by Anaheim Union Water company has been withdrawn as has the $2,000,000 added to the estimated cost by army engineers for housing purposes.

TRAFFIC PLAN SET FORTH
Congestion Would Be Eased By Proposed Scheme, Is Belief

A comprehensive program for improving traffic arteries through Santa Ana will be recommended to the board of directors of the chamber of commerce by a committee on the question, which met yesterday afternoon in the chamber of commerce building.

The recommended program is designed to bring traffic through the city without causing congestion, but at the same time to avoid routing it past or around the city.

Widening of South Main street, and the opening and widening of two north and south streets on either side of Main street constitutes the program approved by the committee. Widening of South Main street would be possible under a project that has been submitted to the state, which has hopes of securing federal funds for this type of work.

Share Here $20,000
The committee did not designate specific streets for the rest of the program but discussed the possibility of Broadway or Sycamore street on the west and Bush or Spurgeon for the east.

A special federal fund of which California's share is about $9,000,000 has been set up for construction and reconstruction of highways. Santa Ana's share, estimated at about $20,000, could be used for the South Main street project, which has been submitted as an alternate to another project linking South Broadway and Main by means of a cutoff from the Delhi intersection with Main street, to Broadway.

Use Gas Tax Funds
Because Main street is a state highway, the city could use its first one-quarter cent share of state gas tax funds to match federal funds for the Main street widening, which would be done by the state. The gas tax funds would not be available for other streets until existing thorough arteries had been improved. The federal setup calls for an expenditure of not more than $1400 per man year from this fund. The city would have to put up gas tax funds to enable the state to complete the

LAST HOMAGE PAID ASTRID IN BELGIUM

Thousands Of Beloved Queen's People See Body In State

FUNERAL ON TUESDAY

King Leopold Shaken By Tragedy, Kneels At Loved One's Bier

BRUSSELS, Aug. 30. (AP)—Long lines of Belgians entered the royal palace in sorrow again today, paying their last homage to Queen Astrid, who was killed yesterday in an automobile accident in Switzerland.

It was 18 months ago that these same folk came to view the mortal remains of King Albert, who also died by accident.

Funeral services are to be held Tuesday, probably at 11 a. m. Drums Muffled
The dead queen Astrid came back to the capital to the muffled roll of drums and to the sound of bugles playing "Aux Champs"—the call usually sounded at funerals.

Banked with white flowers and lighted by six large candles, the simple coffin was placed in the palace chapel, Chapelle Ardente. The special train that bore the body from Switzerland as it drew into the downtown Gare du Nord station found a city in deep mourning.

Sorrowing crowds wept openly in the streets and behind them doors were draped with black crepe and shop windows were shuttered.

A deathlike hush fell over the crowd outside the station as the queen's body was lifted from the coach in which it made the overnight journey from Lucerne.

Sobs From Crowd
Sobs from the bareheaded crowd broke the deep silence as attendants placed the casket in the motor hearse outside the somberly-draped station and stepped back to mark the start of the drive to the palace.

Then drums, hung with heavy black velvet, began the funeral roll, and the notes from the trumpets of a band of army buglers rang out strangely and sharply in the usually bustling square facing the station.

King Leopold left the train at Gare du Luxembourg, before it arrived at the downtown station, and drove to the palace in an automobile to await his queen's body. Governmental and city dignitaries rode in six automobiles which moved behind the hearse as the sad procession to the palace began. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Imbibing Makes Capture Easy

A monkey with a bun on might be an amusing thing to see. But, a monkey with a hangover—ah, witness this tragic scene: one of the fugitives from Frank Buck's zoo at Massapequa, Long Island, that imbibed in whisky bait. The idea was the monkeys would drink, pass out and be easy to capture. They did and they were. A number of the monkeys that escaped recently were still at large. Monkey Attacks Laguna Child, Nearly Severing Wrist; Then Kills Dog Attacked by a large monkey at 10 a. m. today while playing in Laguna canyon, William Holt, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tex Holt, residents of the canyon, was rushed to the Orange county hospital with his left wrist nearly severed, his leg bitten to the bone and severe bites on his arms, face and shoulders.

The monkey, said to be owned by William Wrettenmeyer of Laguna canyon, escaped this morning while being fed. The animal attacked a neighbor's dog, killing it, and then attacked the Holt youngster.

A Mrs. Miller, who recently moved into the canyon, was credited with saving the youngster's life by beating off the beast and then applying tourniquets to the wounded leg and arm until the injured child could be rushed to Dr. Paul Conover for treatment.

The child's condition is serious due to loss of blood and shock. The wrist was almost severed by the fierce attack of the beast, and all the ligaments are torn and slashed. There are deep cuts about the face where the animal tore with his teeth, and gashes upon the body.

According to the child's grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Jackson, the beast had the child on the ground and was tearing at its face when Mrs. Miller was attracted by the screams and drove the animal away.

Constable E. T. Cresce and Officer Howard Allanson shot the animal shortly after the boy was attacked.

Norma Talmadge Shouts When Intruder Flashes Pistol in Doorway

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30. (AP)—Screams of Norma Talmadge, screen actress, today foiled what sheriff's officers believed was an attempt to rob or kidnap her in her apartment in the fashionable Colonial House, Beverly Hills, shortly before noon.

Miss Talmadge told officers a man carrying a small box knocked at her apartment, that her maid, Matilda Shirk, answered, and was told he had brought flowers for the actress.

When the maid unfasted the door chain the man pulled out an automatic pistol, pressed it against her body, told her to hold her hands above her head "and don't say a word."

The maid screamed. Miss Talmadge, in her bedroom, heard the commotion. Seeing the man with the pistol, she slammed shut the door and started screaming.

The man fled down the hallway. He dropped the box. It was empty.

He regarded as a good sign the difficulty an acquaintance of his encountered in trying to purchase a nightgown in Manhattan.

"It was indicative of how common the practice of sleeping raw is getting," he said.

"Nudism has successfully outlived what might be called its age of humorous infancy. The early fears of some who misunderstood the movement that he wanted people to go about their daily

England Awaits News Of America's Peace Security Pact

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 30. (AP)—Foreign ministers rushed plans for the safety of their legations in the event of war with Italy today as the Ethiopian government announced that all railroad transportation of merchants' goods had been stopped in order that the army may utilize all rail facilities for the movement of soldiers, munitions, and foodstuffs.

The British, French and Greek legations here were understood to have issued assurances that there was no need for panic and to have promised to give at least a fortnight's warning in the event of danger of Italian invasion.

The legations were believed to have acted in an effort to prevent their nationals, particularly businessmen, from leaving precipitately.

The French authorities accepted that Italy would not begin war without notification to Great Britain and France.

Although the British, French and German ministers have decided to evacuate their remaining nationals only in the event of the greatest peril, they pushed ahead their work for the protection of their own legations.

Bomb-Proof Dugout
The Germans are constructing a bomb-proof dugout on the river near the legation capable of accommodating 150 persons. German Minister Kirch Holtes is laying in emergency foodstuffs, medicine, beds and other supplies.

The Germans have 250 nationals here and 100 proteges. The French have only 20 citizens. The British have 25 in addition to 3000 Hindus, Egyptians and other colonials.

The French minister has asked the Quai d'Orsay to permit Armenians, Rumanians, Czechoslovaks and Swiss, who are under the protection of France, to live in Djibouti in the event of war.

FLIER FALLS AFTER HOP IN DERBY

Cecil Allen Victim Of Bendix Dash Crackup At Burbank Today

TROUBLED AT START

Trans-Pacific Birdman Came Here in 1926; Stunts Recalled

Cecil A. Allen, former Santa Ana washing machine salesman and trans-Pacific flier, crashed to his death two miles west of Union Air Terminal, Burbank, at 5:22 a. m. today, within four minutes after his takeoff in the annual Bendix Air derby to Cleveland.

Leaping to fame in 1931 when he and Don Moyle, also a former Santa Ana washing machine salesman, attempted a non-stop flight across the Pacific, Mr. Allen was making his first attempt in a transcontinental speed dash when he crashed to death.

Gas Tank Trouble
According to attaches at Union Air Terminal, where the race started, Mr. Allen was dubious about taking off this morning and delayed his start for some time while he inspected trouble in his gas tank. His plane, a tricky, speedy ship, was never under complete control after he left the ground, witnesses said.

Two eye-witnesses of the crash, Fred and Glenn Vayn Winkle, North Hollywood, said Mr. Allen's ship, "The Spirit of Right," sponsored in the race by a religious organization, came low over a power line. A wing was dipping and the aviator shut off the motor, he took off at night from a potato patch, plowing a hole five feet deep and then rolling over for fully 100 feet.

Body Mangled
His body, jammed between the motor and fuselage, was badly mangled and his head was almost severed from his body. He was the last of the nine racers to depart, taking off from the airport at 5:18 a. m.

It was in Santa Ana that Mr. Allen first started taking flying lessons. He started his course at the Eddie Martin Airport, later transferring to Fullerton, where he completed his training.

Local fliers recall him as one of the nerviest and most daredevil pilots to ever fly locally. They tell of the time when, after but three hours of solo flying to his credit, he took off at night from the local airport in an old plane and flew it to Tucson, Ariz. Returning late at night, he landed his ship on the local flying field without the aid of even a ground light. A short time later he had his first "crackup" when he came in to a landing, leveled his ship off at about 50 feet from the ground and crashed.

Came Here in 1926
On another occasion he loaded a washing machine into the front cockpit of his old ship and started for Salt Lake City, Utah. Arriving there, he crashed while attempting to land on the flying field.

Mr. Allen came to Santa Ana in 1928 and sold washing machines while learning to fly. At one time he was manager of the Santa Ana agency for the Maytag company. He resigned in 1931 when he and Mr. Moyle started preparations for the trans-Pacific flight.

The two men had planned a non-stop flight across the ocean, but battling storms and fuel shortages, they took a month to fly from Japan to Tacoma, Wash., after being forced down on a bleak Aleutian island and the flying to the Siberian coast for paint thinner, which they used for fuel.

JEROME SAYS PROPERTY OWNERS IN RURAL AREAS GET TAX CUT

LOWER RATES TO BE FIXED TOMORROW

Higher Cost For City Lands Equalized By Municipal Basis

Instead of increased taxes this year, property owners in rural areas will pay less than they did last year, and the owner of city property will pay slightly more, on the county rate, but will have it equalized on the rate established by the cities. This was the assurance today of Supervisor W. C. Jerome.

The reduction in the amount of actual cash to be paid out by the taxpayer is being obtained through the lowered tax rate of 69 cents for property inside the cities and 73 cents on property in rural areas. These rates will be officially established tomorrow when the board of supervisors meets for that purpose.

Analyzing the figures today, Supervisor Jerome said: "I do not believe the average citizen is particularly interested in budget figures which are so complicated that the average person does not understand them. He is interested, however, in how it will affect him personally."

Record For State
"This year the taxpayers of Orange county will enjoy the lowest county tax rate and the lowest county taxes of any county in the state and one of the lowest direct taxes that they have ever had."

"The man who receives his tax bill this year, if he lives inside the city, will find a slight increase which he will scarcely notice and the man living in rural areas will receive an actual decrease in the amount paid for county purposes."

"There will be a slight increase for the maintenance of Newport Harbor and for a flood control program which I believe the people of Orange county are in accord with in a general desire to obtain some of the worth-while benefits from the vast governmental expenditures for labor in this county."

Mr. Jerome added that, based on state board of equalization figures, establishing the assessed valuation of Orange county property at 50 per cent of the actual value, the taxpayer who owns a piece of property actually worth $2000 finds it assessed at $1000 this year.

More Inside Cities
Assessed at $1000 this year, the rate for purely county purposes will be $6.90 if the property is inside the city, and $7.30 if it is in unincorporated territory.

Marching to An Inevitable Conflict?

Italian and Ethiopian soldiers are being concentrated by the hundreds of thousands for what seems an inevitable war. Here are typical detachments of fighters, Italians (above) and Ethiopians (below). The Italian men were photographed as they marched aboard transports at Naples, part of an outfit of 2,000 that sailed together. was assessed at slightly less than $741, and the tax was $6.71 on property inside the city and $7.70 in unincorporated territory.

The city property owner will find his taxes increased 13 cents on property valued at $2000, while the county property owner will pay 40 cents less on taxes on property of the same valuation.

Mr. Jerome said the total assessed valuation of the common property in the county is approximately $175,000,000 and operative property is slightly under $17,000,000 or approximately 11.25 per cent of the total valuation.

He added that the return of operative property to the county for tax purposes has saved the common property owner from any tax increase due to changes in provisions of the state old age pension act and the federal government's policy of returning a larger share of the welfare load to the local community.

Cites Population Increase

"In spite of the thought that budgets should be reduced," Mr. Jerome said, "it must be realized that, after all, government is just the rendering of service to the people and increased service means increased cost. No sane person will gainsay the fact that Orange county population has definitely increased, even during depression years."

"This is brought home in a most startling manner by the increased number of patients at the county hospital where in the tubercular wards alone we are caring for twice the number of people the buildings were constructed to accommodate. Health authorities of the state have been insistent that we make provisions for more adequate care of these people and we are trying to do that this year through co-operation with the federal government in its building program."

"In addition to the increased requirements this year it must be remembered that we spent in co-operation with the government $325,000 of bond moneys which were not reflected on the tax roll. We only have $80,000 of this money left and in order to co-operate even on the same basis as last year we are short almost a quarter of a million dollars, to say nothing of the insurance that we carry a greater load."

MORE ABOUT QUEEN

Troops lined each side of the street as the cortege wound its way slowly up Boulevard du Jardin Botanique and turned into Rue Royale, which led straight to the gates of the palace.

Church Bells Toll

Church bells tolled throughout the city. Hundreds of persons who packed the sidewalks, crossed themselves and whispered softly-worded prayers as the body of the queen in a coffin covered with a wreath of roses passed along.

Tiny children clutched mothers' hands watching the mournful drama. Queen Astrid's three children played gaily in a garden in one of the royal villas, unaware that their mother never would return to them.

King Leopold was sad-eyed and fatigued from a troubled day and a sleepless night.

Before he left the train accompanied by his secretary, Baron Capelle, he bandaged his own injuries.

Awaits Dead Queen

In the palace as he awaited the arrival of the cortege he sat with bowed head, surrounded by his favorite court officials.

The funeral party halted briefly outside the palace, then the coffin was carried up the grand staircase to the flower-banked Chapel Ardente on the floor which only a few days before rang with the happy laughter of the 29-year-old mother and her three children.

Thousands crowded outside the palace gates, waiting for the hoped-for word that they soon would be allowed to pay their last respects to their beloved queen.

The grief of the huge crowd was doubly the greater because the chapel where Queen Astrid's body was tenderly placed was where King Albert, victim of another accident, lay in state less than 18 months ago.

Her Favorite Flowers

Black Hangings covered the walls of the tiny chapel and white dahlias and roses, among Queen Astrid's favorite flowers, banked the coffin right and left.

For a short time, while some court officials and a few others were admitted to the chapel, King Leopold waited in another room of the palace. Then when the others had gone he entered the room alone and knelt beside the bier.

Unlike the dripping skies, fog and mist of February which prevailed at King Albert's obsequies, a bright late summer sun bathed Brussels for the homecoming of Queen Astrid.

Leopold, his right cheek covered with adhesive plaster, his right arm bandaged and his lower lip slightly cut, still plainly showed evidence of nervous shock and physical and mental anguish.

King's Brother Absent

Prince Charles, Leopold's brother, was absent from Brussels. Queen Mother Elizabeth, and the king's sister, Marie Jose, crown princess of Italy, were expected from Naples today.

After the king had remained for several minutes praying and sobbing quietly beside the bier, he retired and cabinet members and persons of the court were admitted.

At midday, the crowd outside the palace was permitted to file through the chapel.

project. Such contributions would have to be larger in cases where new construction was necessary.

The proposed cutoff between Main and South Broadway would make it possible for traffic from the north or south to go through the city on Broadway, by means of the link between the two streets.

Need Realized

The need for opening traffic arteries through the city was realized when plans were first discussed for the extension of Santa Ana boulevard, according to members of the chamber of commerce committee. With that boulevard opened and with other highways offering traffic routes around the city, Santa Ana would be virtually an island, it was pointed out.

W. H. Spurgeon Jr., temporary chairman of the committee, pointed out the loss to business houses in the city if traffic is routed around instead of through the downtown district, and Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber, declared he knows of three families that located here after having been favorably impressed when passing through the city on motor trips.

ENGLAND WAITS NEWS OF U. S. NEUTRALITY
LONDON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, is awaiting President Roosevelt's final decision in the congressional neutrality act and an official copy of the act for determination of just what actions the United States proposes to take in event of an Italo-Ethiopian war, it was learned today.

There has not been the slightest indication, however, that the government is reserving decisions on policy to be pursued at Geneva next week pending Mr. Roosevelt's signature or rejection of the act.

Keep Strong Course
The government, it was learned authoritatively, has decided to pursue the strongest course of collective action at Geneva, including the proposing of sanctions applicable under the covenant if necessary to halt the conflict should war break out.

'Death Valley' Scotty Says Owls and Bats Have Taken Over His Luxurious Castle

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30. (AP)—"Death Valley" Scotty is just "laying low" with the owls and the bats in his unfinished castle over in Death Valley.

He took his pencil in hand to painstakingly answer a query about his reaction to the bill now in the White House to confirm his title to his famous home of mystery.

"As far as the castle, my partner and I have forgot it. The owls and bats have taken it over."

"There is no one here but myself and the man who keeps the lights shining and keeps the ice plant going. (Temperatures in Death Valley go to 140 and up.)"

'Blew 2 Million'

"Up to date we blew $2,581,000 on it. If it was all put on a train—train would be nine miles long."

"Now here is what happened. The bunch of foreigners has the valley thrown into a national park and have a hotel and some cabins 60 miles below me. They are using me and the castle to attract the tourist."

"I said to hell with you all. I will let the castle die and die with it."

"I never made a nickel out of the little advertisement I got through the press and don't intend to ever take a nickel. That is that."

"If any of you fellows ever blow up this way stop in and see me. I can give you a place to roost, as I have 22 different beds."

'Scottie'

His own bedroom in the castle cost $180,000.

Partner Absent

Then there was a postscript: "Now here is the little these fellows want us to have. Can't use the castle for a hotel. Can't run a gambler's house. Can't have any women. Can't sell booze."

"The castle was built for two men, my partner and myself. He got tired of all the dam petty larceny dicking, and I never see him much any more. He is tired of all the petty politics and so I don't think we will ever finish it. It will take 100 men 20 months to finish it. It cost $100,000 to close it."

Walter Scott, as "Death Valley" Scotty is rarely known, was born in Kentucky and came West as a youth. He started building the cussed for the extension of Santa Ana boulevard, according to members of the chamber of commerce committee. With that boulevard opened and with other highways offering traffic routes around the city, Santa Ana would be virtually an island, it was pointed out.

W. H. Spurgeon Jr., temporary chairman of the committee, pointed out the loss to business houses in the city if traffic is routed around instead of through the downtown district, and Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber, declared he knows of three families that located here after having been favorably impressed when passing through the city on motor trips.

LAVAL TOLD ITALY 'WILL NOT BUDGE'

PARIS, Aug. 30. (AP)—Premier Laval went into session in the country today to decide whether France would support Italy or Great Britain on the Ethiopian issue at the meeting of the League of Nations council next Wednesday.

ENGLAND WAITS NEWS OF U. S. NEUTRALITY
LONDON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, is awaiting President Roosevelt's final decision in the congressional neutrality act and an official copy of the act for determination of just what actions the United States proposes to take in event of an Italo-Ethiopian war, it was learned today.

There has not been the slightest indication, however, that the government is reserving decisions on policy to be pursued at Geneva next week pending Mr. Roosevelt's signature or rejection of the act.

Keep Strong Course
The government, it was learned authoritatively, has decided to pursue the strongest course of collective action at Geneva, including the proposing of sanctions applicable under the covenant if necessary to halt the conflict should war break out.

GUFFEY COAL BILL SIGNED

New Measure May Get Court Test; Fixes Industry's Prices

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Material for a new test of the government's power to regulate industry was placed on the statute books today when President Roosevelt signed the Guffey bill setting up a "little NRA" for the soft coal industry.

The law is designed to allow soft coal producers to fix prices under federal supervision. Proponents contend this will assure the industry sufficient income to pay fair wages.

Advocated by the United Mine Workers, the President and some producers, it was approved by slim majorities in congress despite protests that it was unconstitutional. In urging a reluctant house committee to start the measure toward passage, Mr. Roosevelt urged that doubts about its constitutionality — "however reasonable" — not be allowed to stand in the way.

Steel companies owning their own mines can attack the plan in the courts.

Minimum coal prices are to be fixed by district boards of producers under supervision of a five-man national bituminous coal commission, which also will administer other marketing provisions.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30. (AP)—Better times for motion picture exhibitors were seen today with the pending discharge from bankruptcy of the huge Fox-West Coast Theaters enterprise. Final hearing on the discharge by a federal referee has been set for Sept. 18. The corporation went bankrupt in February, 1933.

PARKING STUDY AIDE URGED
Councilman Ernest Layton said today he will recommend to the city council at its next meeting the appointment of a man to supervise the program for improving parking facilities on business streets of the city.

This appointment was recommended by a joint city and chamber of commerce parking committee headed by Mr. Layton. This committee recommended that business and professional people and their employees keep their cars off the streets so that more space would be available for shoppers.

The man whose appointment is to be recommended would assist business people in securing other parking places, study the parking problem and see that changes were made wherever congestion occurred.

Not only a party but a canary bird in a cage for a present from her aunt and uncle made yesterday a gala birthday for little Nancy Towle, 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. R. Towle of 1022 West Sixth street.

The canary came from Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randel. YOUNG FOLK WANT PASTIMES S. A. Policewoman Sees Need

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

Where does young Santa Ana go after dark?

Of the 15,000 young people in the community, only 800 of them are being encouraged to spend their evenings in Santa Ana, I learned from Mrs. R. R. Russick, Santa Ana's policewoman.

De Molay and Job's Daughters, Junior and Girls' Ebell and "Y" parties, each contacts a few hundred young persons, but what of the thousands of others?

"The hundreds on hundreds of young people who are out of school, who don't make the school clubs and cliques, or who aren't among the sought-after few face a very real problem in finding good clean fun in their leisure hours," the policewoman said.

Remark Overheard
"The remark I heard from a group of young girls recently that, 'If there were a nice clean community dance in Santa Ana where we could go, by twos or threes, meet decent young men and, after dancing, we girls could go home, still together, it would be grand' reminded me that there is one possible project for some civic-minded organization."

Not is a community recreation program without value, for in Fullerton, Anaheim and Orange juvenile delinquency has been practically nil this summer as a result of the summer programs financed by city appropriations and carried on with S. E. A. aid.

"Must Do Something"
"Santa Ana's own juvenile delinquency problem is not as alarming as if ours were an industrial city, but we have had cases of petty thievery and other minor misdemeanors which very probably would not have occurred if adequate amusement were provided the youngsters concerned," Mrs. Russick said.

"There's not enough interest in

NEW MARKS TO AID PARKING SCHOLARSHIP IS GIVEN STUDENT

Aluminum markers will divide angle parking stalls in downtown Santa Ana in the future, aiding motorists to keep their cars within designated spaces, and saving the city the cost of frequent painting of stripes.

Street Commissioner Ernest Layton said today that the installation of metal markers will proceed gradually. The permanent markers will cost about as much as four coats of paint, which has to be renewed frequently, he said.

"With these markers in place, no one will have any difficulty in seeing the dividing lines, and there will be no excuse for cars straddling the lines," said Mr. Layton.

HUNTINGTON BEACH 'BLACK GOLD FESTIVAL' STARTS TOMORROW

THREE DAYS OF EVENTS PLANNED

Carnival, 'Mardi Gras' And Pageant Feature Oil Celebration

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Plans were announced completed here today for the great three-day celebration honoring discovery of the Huntington Beach oil field by W. H. Gallienne, chamber of commerce secretary. The program will start at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, will include an afternoon of sports, music and other events on Sunday and will wind up with a gigantic parade and pageant on Monday.

Saturday evening's first event will be a "Mardi Gras," held in the first block on main street, with prizes offered for the most original costumes and many other entries. Later a ball will be held in the Memorial hall, where the prizes will be awarded.

A paddleboard contest will open Sunday's events at 1 p.m. Many races will be held in the surf under direction of Chief Lifeguard Bud Higgins. These events will be followed by a hog-calling contest at 2:15 p.m., band music and an amateur hour at the beach grandstand. All interested are invited to enter the amateur contest, which will be broadcast over the amplifying system. Winners will be given auditions with radio and motion picture companies, it was announced.

Plan Big Parade
"Wheels of Progress," grand parade of the celebration, will start at 11 a.m. Monday and will include bands, drum corps, clowns and many celebrities. The Windsor club is in charge of this part of the festival. At 1:30 p.m. a "Kiddy Kartoon Comedy Parade" will start at the city hall and parade down Main street to the grandstand on the beach.

Free balloons will be given all children who enter the parade, which will include a Pied Piper and many small children, a section for scooters, one for roller skates and another for pets. Prizes will be given for the cutest child, the best decorated scooter, most graceful skater, best comic character, most beautiful costume, most comic couple, most original costume and for pets.

At 2 p.m. the $10 award will be given for the winning slogan describing Huntington Beach.

Mayor to Welcome Officials
At 2:30 Mayor T. B. Talbert will welcome and introduce visiting oil company officials and J. R. Pemberton, oil umpire for California, will give the day's address.

A pageant, "A Trip Around the World," will start at 3 p.m. and will take visitors to many lands, including Spain, Holland, France, Hawaii, Russia, Turkey, Italy, Japan, and will end in Huntington Beach with a grand finale of oil derricks. Joe Bren, Mr. Gallienne and Jack Africa are in charge of the pageant. About 75 people will participate.

A public wedding will be held at the grand stand at 7:30 p.m., with Miss Carol Shuman of Huntington Beach united in marriage to Harold Barnes of Huntington Park. Completing the day's events, a wedding reception and dance will be held at Memorial hall.

Brick Dust

By BRICK GAINES

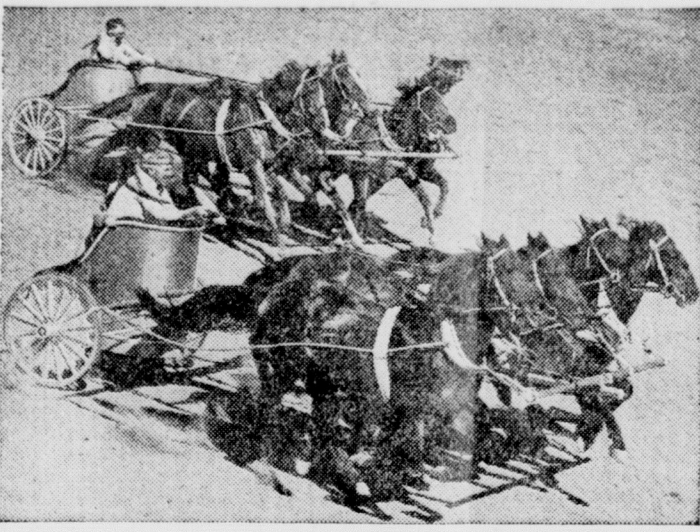

Who can call a hog?
If anyone in the county thinks that he's expert at shouting for porkers, Secretary Gallienne at the Huntington Beach C. of C. wants to know about it.
He's staging a hog-calling contest on Sunday which he says will be the best this side of Iowa, or wherever they hold the biggest ones. He's not very well versed in refereeing such an event, so he's appointed Boxie Huston, well known democrat, to officiate.
I'm just wondering how they go about their contest. Do they have a hog present, so that they can test out effects of the various melodious wheedlings on the animal itself?
They really should have one, to make it realistic. Perhaps some of the callers could be urged on to greater efforts if they could see a porker straining at the leash at the sound of their voices. Who knows?
Secretary Gallienne argues that no catcalls will be allowed.

They're having their celebration in Huntington Beach in honor of the men who discovered oil in the field there and in honor of the industry itself.
Oil was first discovered there in 1921, we're told. Since that time, anyone can see how they've developed the field. It's become so worthwhile now that even senators can argue over it.
The field has done wonders for the town. They can afford to make their beach one of the most attractive along the coast, and are now planning to build a fine casino for dancing.

The three-day program, starting tomorrow, should draw thousands of people there over the week-end. Lots of big shots from the oil industry will be present, and some

FORM GROUP TO STUDY CITRUS ORANGE CLUB HEARS TALK

ANAHEIM.—Formation of a citrus study group, which will consider problems of orange marketing and other problems of the industry, has been announced, with Perry W. Mathis as chairman. Studies of the group are expected to center on all rail rates, auction practices, production and packing house costs, retail practices, salaries of marketing officials and the surplus problem.

That the studies are not being made in a spirit of revolt against existing methods was stressed by leaders of the group.

FULLERTON HAS FLOWER PLAN

FULLERTON.—Planting of flowers in Fullerton parkways to beautify the city for eastern visitors to the Tournament of Roses this winter was suggested at a meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday.

Planting of petunias and geraniums was urged. The directors approved the idea.

Directors also approved a plan to build a replica of Robert Burns' cottage in Hillcrest park. The project was submitted by S. James Buff of Placentia, official in the Orange County Burns club.

ORANGE RESIDENT HAS LION SKIN
ORANGE.—A lion skin, belonging to Alfred Smith, was on display in downtown Orange yesterday after he had received it through the mail from a friend, living in Lagos Nigeria, Central Africa.

The pelt measured more than nine feet in length, and was eight feet from one fore paw to the other. It had been in transit for 42 days, weighed 17½ pounds, and cost $4.50 to send. The value is estimated at $125, but it will be more valuable when it has been tanned. At present Mr. Smith is searching for a man experienced in tanning lion skins to do this work.

When laundering curtains, soak overnight in cold water to loosen the dirt and then launder in the usual way.
of 'em will make talks. They're going to have a "mardi gras," dances, parades, swimming and other races, and many other interesting events.
Looks like Huntington Beach is the place to go over the week-end, with perhaps a side trip to the swimming meet Saturday at Balboa island.

Some time ago, The Journal printed a story about missing goldfish and how the mystery of their disappearance was finally solved when a snake was caught in the act of gulping one of the last of the school. The fish was recovered from the snake's interior and returned to the water, where he lived happily ever after. However, more comes to light about that yarn now.
We're told that Capt. Henry "Hank" Meehan, state highwayman, was the guy who rescued the expiring fish. One might know that Hank would be mixed up in it, seeing as it was a fish story—so said the informant.
But that was only half of what we were told about the popular state highway captain.
It seems that he has a most helpful habit—one that many wives wish their husbands would cultivate. He washes the dishes. On this occasion he was about to start in on the after-dinner exercise when Mrs. Meehan, wishing to save as much of the cleaner's bill as possible, pinned an apron over his uniform.
After the dishes were done, Hank went to town to do a little shopping. He saw several people looking at him queerly, we're told, but remembered that lots of folks look thusly at policemen, and thought no more of it. He visited several stores, where he met the same reception, but didn't tumble to his extra equipment until he arrived home.
I can imagine his embarrassment.

PLAN ORANGE FIELD DAY

Program To End Summer Playground Program, Director Says

ORANGE.—Charles Robinson, playground director, announced yesterday that the annual Field day program will be held tomorrow afternoon, ending the city playground activities for this summer. The meet will be held on the girls' athletic field of the high school and will begin at 2 p. m. A ball game between West Orange and Center street teams, a three-inning girls' ball game, several relay races and contests will furnish the program, to which the public is invited.

The playgrounds have had a successful season this year, with attendance holding up well, he said. Two plays were given last night by the playground drama classes under direction of Mrs. Clarence Alden, at the Intermediate school auditorium. They were "Butcher's Daughter" and "Courtin' Under Difficulties," both comedies. Girls who did not take part in the plays last week had parts. The casts included Edith Morris, Dorothy Morris, Fay Phillips, Eleanor Bolin, Genieve Prickett, Marilyn Wagner and Shirley Wade. Harper's studios furnished music for the entertainment.

This rugged country in Northern California would be turned into a reservoir by Kennett dam, if the Central Valley water and power project is approved by the federal government. The picture was taken a short distance above the proposed dam site which may be located on the relief map at the left. The map shows the broad outlines of the project with its canals, Kennett and Friant dams and the relationship to Boulder dam.

ORANGE GROUP WAS HE A HUNTING DOG? Canine Finds Missing Boy

LAGUNA BEACH.—When sonny boy runs away—page fido. Lawton Jordan, aged 5, who lives with his parents up Laguna canyon, started off to find his mother recently and was promptly called back home by his father. He was ordered to sit in the car until his mother returned, because he was too young to be out alone at night.

When Mrs. Jordan returned Lawton was missing. Frantic calls brought no response. The neighborhood was searched, but with no success. Time passed.

Then Constable E. T. Cresce was called to the scene. More hours of hunting. No one noticed that Lawton's inseparable dog had returned and was quietly taking in the excitement with implish glances at the participants.

Finally, when hope of finding the boy was nearly abandoned for the night, the dog got up and quietly stole off into the darkness. Within a short time he returned, wagging his tail, and with his pal, Lawton, who was thoroughly scared and promised never to run away again.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Tinsdale of Burbank and Mrs. O. L. Craig of Douglas, N. D. were recent guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Lewis.

GIVE OKEH TO PLACENTIA BONDS

School Group Approves Passage Of $160,000 Issue Wednesday

PLACENTIA.—The Pioneer Men's Brotherhood, Placentia school organization, unanimously endorsed a proposed $160,000 bond issue upon which a vote will be held next Wednesday, at a special meeting held last night in the Round Table clubhouse.

Warren M. Bradford, a member of the board of education, explained a plan for rebuilding of elementary schools of the district at a total cost of $310,000 and of additional work planned at Valencia High school costing $90,000, if the bonds are approved.

Mr. Bradford told of decision of the board to call the election after state and other architects had pronounced elementary buildings unsafe. Four board members are on record that sale of the bonds is contingent upon receipt of government approval, he said.

Voters will pass upon two issues Wednesday. The elementary bonds would be for $110,000, while the high school amount has been set at $50,000.

The plan includes rebuilding the burned structure at the Bradford school, and a new auditorium, totaling $210,000; reconstruction and additional land at the Baker street school, $28,500; La Jolla school reconstruction and additions, $45,500, and reconstruction at Richfield school, $26,500.

Proposed work at the high school includes construction of the second unit in the plan already prepared for the school, at a cost of $65,000 and a new gymnasium costing $25,000.

In his talk last night Mr. Bradford impressed upon his listeners the fact that the program will be reduced considerably, but that it was necessary to prepare a plan for presentation to federal authorities so that the school could obtain PWA aid if the bonds are approved.

PLAYGROUND HOURS TO BE CHANGED

GARDEN GROVE.—Schedules of summer playgrounds in Garden Grove, as well as other county projects of the SERRA, which is now in the process of changing to the WPA, have necessarily been changed, Harvey Emley, chairman of the playground committee, announced today. The playground at the Hoover school will continue on schedule, he said, with Director E. L. Marr having volunteered to give his time to keep it open until the WPA becomes active.

During the period from June 3 to August 16 when both the Washington and Hoover school playgrounds were open, there was an average daily attendance of 43 children he said. In addition, the program furnished work for four people, a director and a laborer for each, the latter being employed to keep the grounds in condition.

The Garden Grove Lions club will hold a dinner meeting next Wednesday evening at the home of Rodney Collins in place of the usual luncheon, according to plans made at this week's luncheon.

Plans for the year's meetings will be discussed after dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Crosby (Esther Lott) of Altadena are parents of a 6 and one-half pound baby girl, born August 28 at the Pasadena hospital. The new baby, grandchild of Mrs. C. G. Lott, has been named Donna Jean.

Guests this week at the M. B. Allen home are a cousin of Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Al George, and three children, of Portland, Ore.

SENATE SPLIT ON GAG LAW SUGGESTION

Robinson's Proposal to Limit Debate Fought by Senator Borah

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—A sharp division of senate sentiment appeared today over the proposal of Senator Robinson, democratic leader, to outlaw one-man filibusters.

Robinson's suggestion revived an issue that has been agitated from time to time for 100 years, and on which he once took the other side.

Has Little Chance
Many senators forecast that it had little chance for adoption, though there were some who felt that the filibuster by Senator Long in the closing hours of the last session had changed the senate's historic opposition to limitation of debate.

Senator Borah (R., Ida.), took the leadership in opposing Robinson's proposal with a statement holding that "free debate has its evils, but controlled debate is intolerable."

Declaring that during his 28 years in the senate he had never filibustered, Borah asserted that "controlled debate in both houses would simply be a national disaster."

The Idaho veteran said free debate had killed many a "bad piece of legislation," citing the filibuster by Senator Tydings (D-Md.) Friday night against the $500,000,000 flood control bill. Borah said that bill, which Tydings blocked, was "sheer pork barrel."

Move May Pass

Senator Norris (R-Neb.) forecast that Robinson's move was likely to succeed, but he contended that even under present rules, one-man filibusters could always be broken as long as a date for adjournment was not fixed in advance. He believed that one man could be worn down unless the time of automatic adjournment was fixed close when the filibuster began.

Proposals for limiting senate debate have been advanced since 1840, but with one exception, nothing has been done about it. The majority of the senate has always argued that the chamber was the last forum of unlimited debate in the world, and should be kept so.

Clay Started It

Henry Clay was one of the first advocates of limited debate. He proposed in 1840 to permit use of the "previous question" rule by which in most parliamentary bodies debate is curtailed. He failed.

There were many subsequent attempts but all failed in 1917 when the senate adopted the present closure rule by which a two-thirds vote can limit debate after two days' notice. This was a result of the filibuster which blocked action on President Wilson's proposal for armed merchant vessels.

This rule has been rarely used.

INSURANCE FOR ROGERS TOLD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Jesse H. Jones announced here he had been authorized by Mrs. Will Rogers to state that her husband carried only $500,000 insurance.

The RFC chairman, an old friend, talked with her daily by telephone since Rogers was killed in an Alaskan plane crash.

Jones quoted Mrs. Rogers as saying first reports that Lloyd's Ltd., of London, had paid a $2,500,000 accident insurance policy were erroneous.

He said Rogers carried $250,000 in accident insurance, and $250,000 in regular life insurance.

FILMITE TO WED NET ACE

Vinson-Perry Nuptials Due

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. (AP)—Helen Vinson, who plays cold, sophisticated roles on the screen, is thinking of suddenly flying away to marry Fred Perry, Englishman and world's No. 1 tennis player.

"We would like to marry, if everything works around," she said.

They are not engaged, for the Texas-born actress thinks "engagements are for girls of 17, 18 or 19." The golden-haired Miss Vinson will be 28 on September 17. "I don't think grown-up people should have engagements," she explained and then added that after she watches Perry defend his title in the Forest Hills matches she is going to Connecticut to look for a place—some place I feel is really home, that I can send

His Excellency—

The Governor of Kansas

Alfred Mossman Landon prefers to be called plain "Alf." The "pay-as-you-go" budget-balancing, 48-year-old governor of Kansas is a banker, lawyer, oil man and rancher as well. A native of Pennsylvania, he came to Kansas in 1904, graduated from the law school of the University of Kansas in 1908, went into banking, but soon was lured into oil producing in which he progressed and prospered. Served in the world war. Started in at the bottom of politics as a G. O. P. precinct committeeman. Elected governor in 1932 in face of "new deal" sweep of Roosevelt and again in 1934. His term ends January 1, 1937. He's often called "Lucky" Landon because of his victories in the face of seeming defeat and because he drew a baby daughter, a 500-barrel oil well and a nomination for governor all in one week. A number of his friends call him "Fox" because of his shrewdness and political acumen. He's friendly, informal, unpretentious, unspectacular. He dresses for comfort, often appearing in shirt sleeves and ties when the temperature is high. His hobbies are horseback riding and fishing.

HOSIERY STORE OPENS HERE

The new Moss store at 115 West Fourth street will open tomorrow carrying a complete line of nationally known hosiery, gloves and lingerie, according to Willard L. Schock, district manager. Miss E. Dales of Santa Ana will be local manager of the store.

The store has been remodelled at a cost of $4000, Mr. Schock said. Popular new fall shades in hosiery will be dark brown, ginger, rust, a new green shade and wine color, a new red brown, Mr. Schock said, and in gloves, blacks, browns, navy shades and greens promise to be among the leaders, while in lingerie brocaded satin will be popular.

Mr. Schock is manager of four other stores operated in conjunction with the Santa Ana store. These are located at Huntington Park, Long Beach, Santa Monica and Bakersfield. There are 40 Moss stores on the Pacific coast.

The Santa Ana store will be open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., except on Saturdays, when the hours will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

CAVEIN TRAPS, KILLS THREE MEN UNDER BERKELEY TUNNEL

OAKLAND, Aug. 30. (AP)—Trapped beneath tons of earth and rock, three men were dead today and three others recovering from injuries sustained in a cave-in Wednesday night in the $3,752,000 highway tunnel being bored under the Berkeley hills to connect Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Stephen D. Bechtel, president of Six Companies, Inc., which has the contract for the tunnel, said bodies of the three trapped men were buried deep under debris in the north portal of the tunnel.

The construction company named as killed: Roy Houchin, 40, Berkeley, survived by a widow and son; Howard Davis, 24, Oakland, survived by a widow and two children; and Steve Beljon, 44, Oakland, single.

PARTNERSHIP END SOUGHT BY SUIT

Dissolution of partnership, accounting for moneys expended and division of their holdings is asked in a suit started today in superior court by A. M. Lorenzen against Mrs. Mary A. Kusel and the Orange Savings bank.

According to the complaint, Mr. Lorenzen and Mrs. Kusel own more than 60 acres of ranch land and 14 lots in Orange and Anaheim in addition to other holdings which they have operated as a partnership for a long time. Each party has used money from the receipts of the operations, the complaint alleges, but the amounts used have not been in equal amounts. Mr. Lorenzen alleges that he has asked for an accounting of the money's expended by Mrs. Kusel, but the accounting has been refused.

Bows of ermine are being worn instead of buckles on evening shoes in London.

MONTGOMERY WARD

CHARGE CAPONE $120,000 TAX

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Al Capone, Chicago beer baron now serving an 11-year sentence in Alcatraz penitentiary for income tax evasion, today was assessed almost $120,000 for liquor taxes not paid.

The assessment, ordered by the treasury, also was levied against other members of the Chicago syndicate with which Capone was connected during the prohibition era. Capone is charged with the illegal manufacture, distribution and sale of some 20,000 barrels of beer.

FAITHFUL HORSES REFUSE TO LEAVE INJURED MASTER

BARCLAY, Kan., Aug. 30. (AP)—The faithfulness of Joe Osier's horses almost caused his death. Osier was injured in a fall from a hayrack as they stepped up bringing the wagon wheel over his leg and fracturing it. He managed to unhitch the traces and release the animals, but as the tongue fell from the yoke it landed on his body and pinned him down.

The horses refused to go home, as he had hoped, to give the warning that something was wrong. Mrs. Osier found him five hours later and rushed him to a hospital.

'UNLUCKY TWO'S' LUCKY FOR IOWA SHOPKEEPER

DAVENPORT, Ia. (AP)—The $2 bill, most unpopular of all paper money, is making it possible for Bernard H. Schoonover, his wife and three children to take a vacation trip.

For Schoonover, proprietor of a shop here, has started the practice of saving all $2 bills that come to hand. His average for the year has been slightly more than one a week.

BILL TO HELP VETS FAILED, SAYS HEAD

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30. —A bill, which would have permitted any World War veteran who had resided in California for more than 10 years to obtain a home or farm purchase loan from the veterans' welfare board, did not pass the legislature.

This announcement came today from Chairman Thomas M. Foley of the board, in answer to hundreds of applications filed by veterans under the misapprehension the bill had been approved by the legislature.

Under terms of the present act, anyone obtaining farm and home purchase loans must be California enlisted veterans.

Money is loaned on long-term 5 per cent contracts to veterans who wish to build or purchase homes and farms. Value of homes is limited to $7,500 and of farms to $12,500.

FRANCE "SOAKS RICH" BY NEW TAX

PARIS, Aug. 30. (AP)—Heavier taxation of the wealthier Frenchmen has just been ordered by decree laws in an effort to balance the top-heavy budget and save the franc from devaluation.

A 50 per cent surtax has been imposed on incomes above 100,000 francs ($6,600), which is considered modest wealth in France. The tax on dividends from unregistered (bearer) securities was raised from 17 to 24 per cent.

The boost in the income tax is expected to add 300,000,000 francs ($20,000,000) to that form of revenue. The 7 per cent surtax in dividend taxes promises to boost the credit balance by 500,000,000 francs ($33,000,000).

AVOCADO CROPESTIMATES FOR NEXT SEASON MADE

Approximately 7,500,000 pounds of avocados may be marketed next season by the Calavo Growers of California, according to crop estimates already received from 1,334 growers. Although these growers compose 72 per cent of the association's total membership, their production will be approximately 88 per cent of the total avocado crop for next season, according to B. C. Stephens, production manager of the growers' marketing cooperative.

This indicated crop will be 56 per cent of that of 1935. However, it will be well over twice as large as any other group ever handled up to 1925, added Mr. Stephens. The 1935 tonnage actually handled will be within 1 1/2 per cent of that estimated last October 1 for this season.

LONG DASH DIE FOR CRUISERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30. (AP)—Eleven big cruisers of San Francisco's power fleet are slated to nose out of Yacht harbor at the crack of dawn tomorrow morning in a 68 nautical mile dash to Santa Cruz.

The San Francisco to Santa Cruz race is believed to be the longest race for motorboats in the United States.

CHEMIST IN TEXAS MAKES NEW FLOUR FROM COTTONSEED

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 30. (AP)—A young Texas chemist, C. W. McMath, believes he has solved a problem that has kept cotton researchers men busy for three decades—development of a palatable cottonseed flour.

The chemist, a graduate of Texas A. and M. college, tackled the problem in 1932.

He spent six months learning practical operations. Then he retired to his laboratory. Eight months later he had a palatable test tube of flour. He then sought to solve the proposition of commercial production, which necessitated revising his entire procedure. Nearly a year passed before that barrier was surmounted.

The chemist turned machinist, evolving designs for machinery new and radical to the industry. Recently the machinery roared into action and cottonseed flour became a reality.

The product, light tan in color and smooth in texture, has been approved by the American Medical association's committee on foods.

BROTHERS SKIRT DANGER PASSING 2 1/2-YEAR MARK

PALO ALTO, (AP)—Two and a half seems to be a dangerous age for the sons of Alvin H. Robertson, but they manage to survive.

When Alec, now 5, was two and one-half he fell out of a two-story window but was virtually unscathed although he landed on a brick sidewalk in front of the Robertson home.

Not to be outdone by his big brother, Alan, Jr., now two and one-half, staged a solo automobile runaway. An eight-foot two-by-four post smashed through the windshield close to his head—but he also emerged virtually unharmed.

FILM'S 'G-MAN' STUDIES PIRACY

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30. (AP)—James Cagney is a peaceful fellow, who does his shooting in pictures only, but his hobby is the study of piracy and the collection of pirate weapons.

The collection, amassed through attending auctions, answering advertisements, goods, outwitted the small, low library in which Cagney kept it along with his books.

And when Jimmy remodeled his house two years ago, he tore out one wall of this library and stretched the room to twice its former size.

The wall, he finished in natural pine. The furnishings are heavy, time-worn, comfortable. Deep-set windows provide space for small shelves to show the hundreds of small items he has gathered, and wall spaces are clear for the better display of his "best pieces."

As a principal decorative motif for his "holby-house," Cagney had Dwight Franklin build one of his noted groups of model figures depicting pirates in characteristic pose.

CASAPETS TO DANCE HERE Spanish Pioneers Will Dance

On with the dance!

Mantilla-dancers, women wearing the dress of early California rancho days, and red-sashed dons brandishing fierce tmoustachios will dance tomorrow night under the dawn in Gonzales hall when the Spanish Pioneers society of Santa Ana and the Spanish Californian club of San Juan Capistrano get together for an old-fashioned dance.

Quadrilles, mazurkas, varsoviennas and other dances typical of the early days will be the order of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Sepulveda, whose name was famous in the days of the dons, will direct the dances.

Katherine Sepulveda and Virginia Velezuela will dance the jarabe.

Pioneers of the vicinity are being urged to come, dance and reform new ones. If attendance justifies, the dances will be given monthly.

Radio Roundup TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By DAVID BROEKMAN
Conductor "California Melodies"

OF ALL the varied offerings which radio presents, no other single item is accorded so much attention as music. Many radio programs are devoted entirely to music. Practically every program makes use of music to some extent as a feature here or there. It has been my intent in presenting radio musical programs which will appeal to the great average of radio listeners, to cover that audience comprising the lovers of the classics and the average layman. This was a problem. I decided to use well aged and standard numbers; create a symphonic form for it by using and intermingling the works of the masters, modernizing the harmonies but always retaining the "line of melody." I allude to such type of numbers as "Limehouse Blues," "Lover," "The Continental," "La Cucaracha," etc. In addition I found that the modernizing of classical times such as "Anitra's Dance," "Hall of the Mountain King" and "March of the Sargard" meet with instantaneous approval. The result is that I use a number of such every week on my "California Melodies" because it reaches all levels.

Radio with its remarkable offering has created almost a revolution in the status of music in our country. A quarter of a century ago music, in its higher forms, was heard and enjoyed by only a small portion of our people, the musical elite. Today radio is the medium through which carefully prepared music of any type can be heard by anyone. But what has been carefully prepared is not always quickly assimilated.

Pine music is made up of many details, nicely balanced. Solid culture or appreciation is slow in its development. It is not surprising that radio listeners who have had slight opportunity for musical guidance feel that the fall to get the full musical content from great orchestras, artists and ensembles.

I believe, therefore, if the individual listener will follow the following reactions to music he will truly reap a greater and finer benefit from music:

- 1—Use music as a pastime, a pleasure. This is a natural condition for everyone is born with a love for music in some of its forms. Remember, that early lack of pleasure in music does not shut us out forever from the enjoying of the art in one or more of its phases.
- 2—The extending of one's sympathies. One cannot listen to music without giving himself to it more or less completely and this carries with it the necessity of accepting the mood or point of view embodied in the music.
- 3—Listening to music may act as an outlet or safety valve for undesirable emotional states.
- 4—Music is good company, for music is not so much a thing to be explained and talked about as a thing to be exposed to. When we put ourselves in contact with good music we are submitting ourselves to the possibility of "catching" good music.
- 5—Listening to music stimulates the imagination. Music is available not only for the pleasure of the moment but for that unconscious general stimulation of the whole being which is akin to comfort and feeling of sympathy. As we hear music over the radio with no actual presence of the conductor, with no coughing or whispering, with none of the many distractions of the concert hall, then in its pure form and our imagination may rise or fall with the strains of the music.

BATTLE TALK ON THE NIGHT BEFORE

We've been talking with the enemy—just when the local lads are girding themselves for the all-important over-the-top dash for the 1935 National League night ball honors.

Joe Rodgers, pilot of Huntington Beach's destiny team, invaded the office to tell us that he thought the Oilers would win, all right, but not in four games. "It'll take six games," said Joe, "but not anymore." He hasn't decided by what scores he expects to win the four of those games his gang'll need, but he is certain of one thing—Santa Ana will have to make at least five runs per game to beat us," he declared.

That, of course, started play on the relative strengths of the two teams. We looked up scores and found that with the exception of the last game in which both squads used their second line forces, the Stars have made 20 runs in five games against the Oilers and the Oilers have done the same thing against the Stars. The last game was 10 to 5 for Joe's gang.

Joe thinks, and said, among other things:

"That his team has a 'winning complex'... that the Stars are not now working as a unit such as is needed to make a winning ball club... but that the Oilers are... That when he 'broke up' the ball club during the first half of the season by ousting Sabella and some others he nearly ruined things for good... Louie Neva had to be injected into the intricate machinery of the Oilers team with much care... That 'anything can happen' (remember Long Beach?) and the Beamen will take no chances, going out to win in four straight if they can do it... added gate receipts mean nothing to Joe, he says.

Joe first got his desire to take on Santa Ana in a flag chase way back in 1928. It was his first game in night ball. Playing against the local nine he was fanned four times in as many batters... then he quit baseball, coming back later with revenge in his heart. This is the first chance he's had for it.

He also thinks that Jim Coates has but a single delivery and that one is easily solved by the Huntington Beach batters... Louie Neva has at least a dozen good ones at his disposal, Joe boasts... The American league champs won't have a chance with the National winner in the "world's series" of night ball because of the inlanders' habit of chopstick hitting... Rodgers says first base at least base and catcher are the key spots in night ball and he thinks he has world beaters for these jobs in Bob Smith, Bill McKinley and Merv Lower.

The addition of Merle Urbine and Al Reboin to the Stars assertedly is no worry to Mr. Rodgers... So much interest has the series aroused that Huntington Beach's city council decided on a hurry up job to enlarge the seating capacity at the diamond there to 3000... and they expect to fill it.

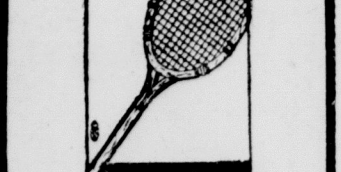

Yes, after a talk that was mostly just listening, we can readily see that Joe Rodgers has a hunch his 1934 champions are in rather a good spot to make it two in a row.

MRS. L. J. BUSHARD WINS GOLF PLAY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. L. J. Bushard flashed her superiority in medal play sweepstakes at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday with a golf score of 92-15-77. Mrs. Jack Colburn, 96-18-78; Mrs. Hugh Shields, 97-17-80; and Mrs. Harry Bakre, 93-13-80, were other winners.

Mrs. Harry Bakre won blind-hole play with a card of 21 over four holes. Mrs. L. H. Robinson and Mrs. Colburn tied for second with 23, but Mrs. Robinson won in the draw.

The Yankees have engaged in seven extra-inning games this season, losing four of them, and Charley Ruffing has been the losing pitcher in three of those four.

ANAHEIM LAD OUTPUNCHES CORDOZA

Herrera Licks Woods In Second Top Spot; Ebony Boys On Short End

By FRANK ROGERS

Beaten to a standstill in the first round, Anaheim's stout-hearted Don Benzor staged a colossal comeback at the Orange county athletic club last night and handed Ontario's Lupe Cordoza his second beating in recent weeks. Cordoza is the recognized Southern California bantam-weight amateur boxing champ.

Smarting with indignation at the thumping handed him by Benzor when they met here two weeks ago, Cordoza started out in the first with his famous machine-gun left to mow down the determined Benzor. Twice this rapid-fire weapon mercilessly flayed Benzor and then Cordoza's dynamite right came sailing in; Benzor went down for a pair of four counts.

Champ Is Cheery
Cheery and smirking, Cordoza put on the coarser and Benzor, plodding stubbornly along, fought back enough to make the second round a draw. The third Benzor copped handsily when Cordoza commenced to tire and missed his punches; in the fourth Cordoza, completely shaken, lost his temper and his technique. He spit out his teeth grating in his anger and waded in crudely like any Joe Palooka.

Benzor, meanwhile, had been taking on steam, working himself into stride for his best battle. He showed he had a left of his own, rocked the champion, sent Cordoza reeling, and then he hit him right at the put the titholder down. Knowing he was too far behind to risk taking a count Cordoza got up before any count had been made only to feel a cloudburst of Benzor's blows.

The judges split on the decision, but most of the fans thought the Anaheim boy deserved an edge for his steady campaigning. Referee Clayton Fry, casting the third vote to break the tie, took one short look at Cordoza, gazed in admiration at Benzor, raised his hand.

Herrera Wins Bout
Frankie Herrera, 165, in better shape than when he won over Lupe Le Mon here two weeks ago, out-punched the Ebony club's "Tiger" Jack Woods in the second main event battle and earned a promise of a fight here with Long Beach's sensational Bud Holzhauser.

Art Hernandez, who seems to take on anyone and everyone in the local ring, opened an old wound on battle-scarred Joe Los Varro's right arm and the Los Angeles Ebony club batter had to quit at the end of the third stanza.

It was a bad night for the Ebony club's usually potent fighters, the colored punchers losing every one of their engagements. Santa Ana's Benny Gorr, 2, tired Marco Willis, another one of the colored contingent and the dusky counterpart of Slim Summerville took the count flat on his face in the second round.

Ontario's Larry Thomas was handed an upside-down verdict over the Ebony club's Clovis Wilson, spindly 136-pounder. Bill Mango, looking like an African bushman, stacked Frank Marti-bushman, 10, Los Angeles, 8, in the west corner of the ring in the second with a straight-from-the-shoulder right-to-the-chin punch.

Santa Ana's promising Johnny Chavez put colored Willie Fields down twice with right crosses in the first round and sailed on to nab the nod in the second most interesting bout of the evening.

Boots Hawkins, Santa Ana, stopped Clarence Montgomery, Ebony club, in the fourth when the visitor tired and the bout was halted.

Nine Stars Bat Above .300 As Alvin Reboin Grabs Title

By FRANK ROGERS

Alvin Reboin, Santa Ana's triple-role star—an outfielder, catcher and pitcher—clubbed his way to the National Night Ball league's 1935 batting championship with a sensational mark of .468, and nine other Stars kept above the .300 figure, according to official averages released today.

Santa Ana gathered 357 hits in 1112 times at the plate to compile the highest team average of .321, three points better than Huntington Beach's .318.

Bill McKinley, third baseman, grabbed second place with a percentage of .447 for the Oilers, who had seven players above .300.

MANDERS' TOE WINS GRID GAME FOR PRO OUTFIT

By WILLIAM WEEKES

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The talented toe of Jack Manders, 210-pound fullback of the Chicago Bears, is the current margin of difference between a good professional football club and an all-star college array.

The Bears conquered the all-stars, 5 to 0, before a throng of 77,000 last night at Soldier field, but the only earned points bounced off Manders' right toe late in the first period. The other came in the last period when, during a downpour of rain, Bill Shepherd fumbled the greasy ball behind his own goal line and fell on it for a safety.

Still Need Something
The professionals, seeking vengeance for what to them was humiliation in being held to a scoreless standoff in last year's all-star battle, won all right, but still left something to be desired.

The Bears' defense allowed itself to be shoved around by last year's all-stars, was anything but a pushover last night. Only once did the collegians penetrate Bear territory, and only once did they make a serious scoring threat.

Shepherd Gets 15
Early in the final session, with the Bears leaning on their three-point lead, Shepherd, the work-horse of the college squad, broke away for 15 yards to the professionals' 27-yard line. An end around maneuver, on which Don Huston, Alabama's all-American

Whether Pomona and Colton must meet in a play-off for the second-half championship of American league nightball, or whether Colton can claim the title outright and rest up for the association series with either Huntington Beach or Santa Ana, will be determined tonight when Pomona and Covina tangle at Pomona in a "Gassy" Gravy, association president.

Covina protested a third-round victory by Pomona. Pomona must defeat the Colts again tonight to deadlock Colton for the second-half crown. Colton won the first-half title without a dispute.

Low Riggs, out of the game with an injured finger, earned his pay by doing considerable pinching and running for the Cincinnati Reds.

WELL, THEY CAN STILL CROON Baer, Doyle Scare Producers

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. (AP)—Concert and chautauqua managers are fleeing fast from New York's most available soundproof cellars today—dodging from the Buddy Baer and Jack Doyle they observed in Madison Square Garden for a brief moment last evening.

The youthful, crooning brother of Max Baer, who walked away with a technical knockout in the first round, and the vanquished bonny Irish lad with klieg eyes, who also has an unscapable tenor, are suddenly the Frankenstein creatures of those managers who were onlookers at the so-advertised fight.

Producers On Hand
The audience was dotted here and there with Broadway producers who weren't so much optimistic sportsmen as they hoped that either Baer or Doyle would make enough impression that they could be transported amid orchids and Beethoven to Hollywood studios or Times Square musical comedies.

START COUNTY TITLE PLAY TONIGHT

By FRANK ROGERS

Those upcountry rivals, Brea and Olive, begin their quest for County Night Ball league supremacy at Brea tonight.

Champions of the eight-team fraternity's split season, Virgil Kiger's Lions and Bob Smith's Grenadiers lock horns in the first game of their three-out-of-five series in Brea at 8 o'clock. They move into Anaheim for their second conflict Monday night.

Opposition hurriers, selected long ago, will be Lyle Morse for Olive, Rudy Montgomery for Brea.

The teams met four times during the regular season. Brea won three of the games, 1-0, 8-7 and 16-0. Olive took the other, 7-0. Brea, however, has suffered a general let-down, and Olive has been established the favorite.

The probable lineups:
Olive
Morse, p.; Clyde Holmes, c.; Herb Grimm, 1b.; Joe Rapier, 2b.; Red Bath, ss.; "Frenchy" Lou-magne, 3b.; Bill Bath, lf.; Charley Beaver, cf.; and Arnold Stuck, rf.

Brea
Montgomery, p.; Joe DiHarc, c.; Lester Evans, 1b.; Jim Stives, 2b.; Ray Thompson, ss.; Woodrow Griffith, 3b.; Stan Miller, lf.; Buck Livesay, cf.; and Bill Roberts, rf. Roberts may relieve Montgomery on the mound.

TOURNEY NINES DRILL TONIGHT

Santa Ana's Elks and Orange's 20-30 all-stars, polishing their attack for the Southern California nightball championship tourney sponsored by the Examiner in Los Angeles next week, will have the honor of dedicating Irvine park's new lighted field in an exhibition at 8 o'clock tonight.

Four well-placed, 60-foot poles, each with three reflectors flashing light from 1,500-watt globes, in addition to another 1,500-watt light in a big oak tree behind home plate, provide the illumination. The oak trees surrounding the diamond are said to make a perfect background for the lighting system.

Ken Miller, pilot of the Elks, plans to divide pitching duties between Ellwood Lindley and Ed Bristow. Manager Oscar Stutheit probably will employ either Bobby Jones or Roger Larimer in the box.

Catcher Herb Bowe of the Elks is slowly recovering from an injured arm, and it is doubtful if he will play. Lefty Levens probably will be shifted back of the plate, and Darwin Scott is slated to replace Levens at third. Dave Styling, 1b.; Bob Schwarm, 2b.; Wayne Garlock, ss.; "Gorky" Bell, lf.; Len Stafford, cf.; Gordon Herman, Tony Kneip or Manager Miller, rf., will complete the Elks' array.

And what of the past? As the Stars and Oilers come to grips tonight in the first game of the National league championship series, many fans probably are thinking of the six times this year the two squads have met. So are the Oilers, too, for the beamen have won four of those six games. Here is the summary of the Star-Oiler conflicts this year:

Joe Rodgers SEES TITLE FOR VICTOR

By FRANK ROGERS

Fiery Joe Rodgers, colorful little veteran who fanned four consecutive times during his first fling at nightball back in 1928, and with an explanation of "this absolutely is not my sport," retired from the game for three long years, sees another Southern California championship ahead for his Huntington Beach Oilers if they can eliminate Santa Ana in the National league's seven-game play-off opening here tonight.

"The National league champion will have easy sailing against the American league representative—Colton or Pomona—says Manager Joe, one of the smartest shortstops in the business.

Has Long Career
Rodgers, now in his 30's, has had a long career in hard ball, which he began playing as a hobby while just a kid in San Francisco. But it has been only since 1931 that he has been in softball.

Recalling his miserable showing in two games with Huntington Beach in '28, Joe could not be persuaded to take up softball seriously until four years ago. The creamy nine of Long Beach needed the most sought-after pitcher in the Southland, and Rodgers agreed to "fill in."

He changed his style of batting, and developed so rapidly that his services were quickly sought in the faster San Pedro league. With a growing interest in nightball, Joe returned to the Long Beach City league in 1932 and skipped the Alford Sales to the finals before losing the championship, 5-4.

Huntington Beach's Oilers of the National league were in the market for new talent about that time, and signed Rodgers as player-manager to replace John Ireland, now at Long Beach. Joe reported in the spring of '32, and brought along three other city leaguers—Merv Lower, George Murray and Paul Neva, all members of his present aggregation.

Lost to Torrance
Rodgers guided his new love to the National league play-offs in 1933, but lost to Torrance the only series he has ever dropped. He came back last season, and won the National league schedule, to whip Riverside's American league champions four straight, and to annex the California state crown from Visalia.

Now having won 14 of 15 games while capturing the second-half title and the right to battle Santa Ana for the 1935 honors, Joe walked into The Journal sports department recently sporting a miniature gold softball on his tie and said: "I'll be wearing another of these after the coming series."

Why the Grin?

By PAUL WRIGHT

Huntington Beach, mightier than its Southern California championship collection of last summer, and Santa Ana, the supreme challenger, move their nightball forces into the Municipal bowl tonight to begin a seven-game series leading to National league supremacy.

More than 3000 fans are expected to "sit in" on the spirited warfare, starting promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

Russian Louie Neva's remarkable pitching, consistently a stumbling block to Santa Ana, has been advanced by the so-called experts as a major reason for quoting Huntington Beach the undisputed favorite, with odds as high as 3 to 1.

Another factor not to be overlooked: Huntington Beach is in strike, while no one knows exactly how Santa Ana, with a juggled lineup, will perform during the miniature "world series."

Oilers Are Optimistic
The question no longer appears to be "Who will win?" but rather "How many of the seven games will Huntington Beach require to eliminate the Stars?" Many, including the Oilers players themselves, predict the series will go only four games. Manager Joe Rodgers of the defending champs believes it will go six before his club wins. Only the most optimistic expect Santa Ana to carry the Oilers to the limit of seven.

Santa Ana's progress will depend directly upon the pitching performances of Jimmy Coates. Coates, invisible in the first half, fell into a slump late in the season, and it remains to be seen whether he can flash his old-time form. Jimmy still has his control, and if he reclaims his "stuff," especially that "hook," Coates, manager of the Denney's Stars will be hard to whip.

With 10 men above the .300 clip, and two—Al Reboin and Francis Conrad—over the 400 mark, Santa Ana's hitting ability cannot be questioned. But these Neva's ages were compiled against other chucks than Louie Neva, Huntington Beach's offensive record is only a few points inferior, and the sad part of it all—Santa Ana, at least—is the fact that the Oilers have hit the offerings of Coates as freely as any rival gunner.

Ballard On Sidelines
Rod Ballard and George Preble of the Stars and Paul Neva of the Oilers will be on the sidelines at the start of the conflict.

Denney, 370, intends to go into left field, and will assign Reboin, the league's premier swatsmith at .468, to Ballard's centerfield post. Reboin may pitch if Coates weakens in the latter stages.

Recalling Charley Zaby's three homers in the past two games against Coates, Skipper Rodgers will send this hard-slugging rightfielder for the Oilers. Paul Neva will alternate with him or Leftfielder George Murray.

Purchase New Uniforms
Huntington Beach will be clad in new red, white and blue uniforms... blue caps and cardinal sweaters... New trunks will be presented by a comedy team of Schuchardt, Smith, Murray, McKinley and Rodgers preceding the game... This quintet throws the ball in every direction right before taking infield practice, and keeps the crowd in a uproar of laughter.

Tonight's umpires will be Ellison (Long Beach), plate; Smith (Brea), 1b; and Sullivan (Brea), 3b... The second game will be played at Huntington Beach Tuesday night.

shut-out ball for five periods, after allowing Santa Ana three runs in the first. Bill McKinley moved over from third to work the eighth and ninth. "Doc" Smith twirled the last two frames for the Stars, Santa Ana gathered 11 hits, Huntington Beach 17. Victory gave the Oilers a seasonal series, six games to two.

Replica of Bobby Burns Cottage Is Planned for Hillcrest Park, Fullerton

(This is the sixth of a series of articles having to do with the establishment and development of Fullerton's two parks, outstanding beauty spots and recreational institutions of Southern California. The series is intended to be informative to those cities which do not enjoy park facilities. Santa Ana is listed in the latter classification.)

By ROCH BRADSHAW

A movement was under way today to bring a wee bit o' Scotland to Hillcrest park in Fullerton—a replica of the cottage in which Bobby Burns, the beloved Scotch poet, was born. It is hoped that some day the cottage may become a Burns museum.

Yesterday at the meeting of the board of directors of the Fullerton chamber of commerce a committee was appointed to confer on the matter with Alex F. Walker, Fullerton, president of Robert Burns society of Orange county, who is enthusiastic about the idea. The junior chamber of commerce also will work on the project.

To Secure Plans

Mr. Walker will communicate with the Burns federation of Scotland with headquarters at Kilmar-nock, in an attempt to secure plans of the original Burns cottage near Ayr, where the poet was born on January 27, 1759. The famous shrine is an old clay cottage against the road not far from the Brig o' Doon.

It is hoped that after the plans are secured a site can be made available in Hillcrest park, where the Burns society can take the lead in a movement to get the cottage erected. Hillcrest park, with its rolling hills and green valleys would be an especially appropriate setting for the cottage.

The chamber of commerce committee appointed yesterday is composed of Robert Strain, William Stedman and Harry Suters, Harry May, secretary of the chamber, said.

Scotch Meet September 8
Mr. Walker said yesterday that Hillcrest park will be the scene of another Scotch gathering on September 8 when a picnic dinner will be served.

Judges Announced

Judges for the model construction will be Floyd Martin and Dale Decker, aviators. Miss Mary Porter will inspect the handicraft, and Mrs. Grace Kniep the scrapbooks.

Leaders in charge of the exhibits are Charles Tooez, athletics; Mrs. Gertrude Warren, homespun arts; C. R. Atherton, scrapbooks; and George McConnell, model building.

A program of dancing and music will be directed by Mrs. Warren as an added attraction. Playgrounds participating are Lowell, Muir, Roosevelt, Fremont, Lincoln, and the Municipal playground.

LINDY'S BABY TALE TAKEN LIGHTLY

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30. (AP)—Official indifference was registered today in the east to an announcement here by C. Lloyd Fisher, chief counsel for Richard Bruno Hauptmann, that a child which he believed might be the supposed dead Lindbergh baby had been found living on Long Island, N. Y.

Fisher, here seeking new evidence to back up a plea for a new trial for the condemned Hauptmann, announced the purported "discovery" in a joint statement with Vincent Marco, Hollywood attorney for Mrs. Emma Glocker, sister of the German carpenter, who lives here.

"I don't say the babe my men have found is the Lindbergh baby," Fisher said. "I merely say he might be and I want a fair chance to prove what I believe."

Advised of the defense counsel statement, Attorney General David T. Wilentz, in New Jersey, who prosecuted the case, smiled.

"I have nothing to say except Pacific must be a wonderful ocean," he remarked.

Capt. John J. Lamb, chief of the detective division of the New Jersey state police, suggested that fingerprints of the baby mentioned by Fisher and prints which the state contends were those of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. be compared.

Declining to reveal circumstances surrounding the discovery of the child on Long Island, Fisher said that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had "refused" to go and see the child.

A high state police official in Trenton, N. J., said today the state had many noted scientists ready to testify the body found near Hope-well three years ago was that of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., but did not call them because Hauptmann's defense did not challenge the identification.

The official said the scientists would have testified, among other things, that the hair found on the body was identical with a lock of the Lindbergh baby's hair, clipped a few days before the kidnapping.

Mussolini Training Them Young

In line with Premier Mussolini's edict that military training should be part of every Italian child's education, here is a group of the "Sons of the Wolf," the youngest branch of the fascists. Their ages range from six to eight. Except for the little fellow who could not repress a yawn, here they present a unique appearance as they prepared for their first march through Rome.

WARMER'S SON MAKES HOME

Turning an old church building into a parsonage has been the first assignment of the Rev. George A. Warner, Jr., of his pastorage at the Magnolia Park Community church, according to word received today.

Appointed to the Magnolia Park church at the Southern California conference of Methodists this summer, the son of the Rev. Dr. George A. Warner sr., of the First Methodist church here, was presented on his arrival with a new church building, but no parsonage. Work had been started by the minister preceding him on altering the old church building into a parsonage. On the young Rev. Mr. Warner's arrival, work began anew.

Members of the congregation donated materials, brought their hammers and saws and began rebuilding. Now, what was formerly a single auditorium, has been partitioned into rooms, and the place is ready for plastering. The new minister was reported to be a lusty hammer swinger.

PANTING RUNNER IN PANTS HALTED ON STUNT
HOLLYWOOD. — Too many pants, and an alleged scarcity of pants, ended David F. Leonard's wager that he could trot 16 miles to the beach, take a dip and trot home again.

Leonard, 45-year-old stockbroker, hoping to win a $500 bet with a friend, started out. He wore a pair of shorts, and that was about all, so an amazed woman spectator complained.

She called police. They overtook the panting runner and looked him over on a charge of being intoxicated. They also called all bets off.

JACKIE COOPER'S PAY CUT TO $100 WEEKLY

Court approval was given to a contract which will pay the youngster $100 a week for 40 weeks. If it is renewed, however, Jackie's pay jumps to $1500 a week. His old contract called for a weekly wage of $1300.

FHA RULING AIDS REALTORS' CLIENTS
James H. Berry, local field representative for the federal housing administration, said today that increased service to clients of realtors will be possible under the recent ruling of the FHA which permits brokers to apply for conditional commitments in their behalf.

"The conditional commitments," said Mr. Berry, "are simply applications for the valuation and rating of the security in cases where the actual mortgage is either unknown or contemplated, and whether or not the property involved is under construction or to be constructed."

Pamphlets issued by the FHA are available to realtors at the office of the realty board, Mr. Berry said.

3 MILLION TO BE AT WORK BY FALL

Transition To New U. S. Set-Up Results In Decrease Of Jobs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP)—Government statistics showed today that there are now 200,000 fewer people at work on relief jobs than there were six months ago.

High relief officials, while declaring that this figure was correct, added that the new work relief program is speeding up, and that Harry L. Hopkins will attain his goal—which is to have 3,500,000 persons at work in November.

Jobs Decrease

They said Hopkins has been weeding out many work projects conducted under the old relief set-up, aiming to substitute "more desirable" ones. During the transition period, the number of jobs has decreased.

The most precise figures available put the number of persons at work today at 2,500,000. This includes 2,000,000 employed by the old Federal Emergency Relief administration, whose activities officials hope to taper off quickly with the new $4,880,000,000 Work-Relief program.

The 2,800,000 figure also includes 400,000 members of the Civilian Conservation corps, and 200,000 employed in the new $4,880,000,000 drive.

Hope to End Dole

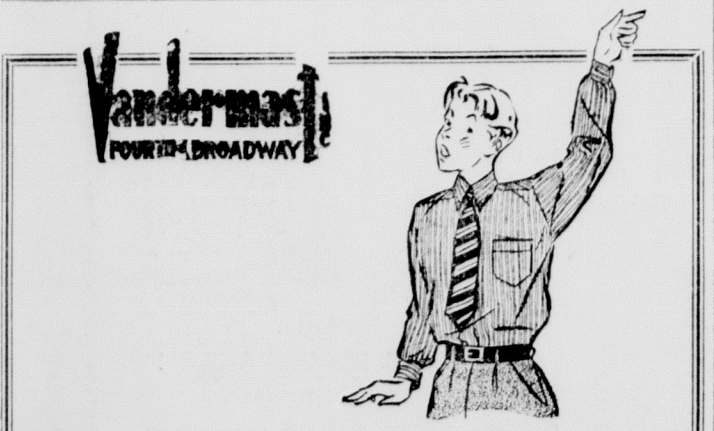

Six months ago, 2,800,000 jobs were available for the needy—comprising 2,500,000 provided by FERA and 300,000 by the CCC. Just now federal relief activities are passing through a transitional stage from the old FERA, which gave some people work and provided "dole" for others, to the new program, in which the government hopes to end the federal "dole" by giving work to 3,500,000 and returning "unemployables" to the care of the states.

Yesterday Hopkins cut Alabama and Wyoming off the "dole" list, saying that such funds no longer were required there because all employable needy are being shifted quickly to jobs in the works drive.

HAMILTON'S SLAYER UNNAMED BY JURY

OSWEGO, Ill., Aug. 30. (AP)—A coroner's jury yesterday decided that a moldered corpse dug up near here by "G-men" Wednesday was that of John "Three-Fingered Jack" Hamilton, but did not determine who killed the Dillinger lieutenant.

The jury's verdict was that "Hamilton came to his death from gunshot wounds from persons unknown, but we believe from the evidence given that the body is Hamilton's."

Parents Have To Pay!

That is what we keep in mind when preparing our stocks of SCHOOL WEAR for boys!

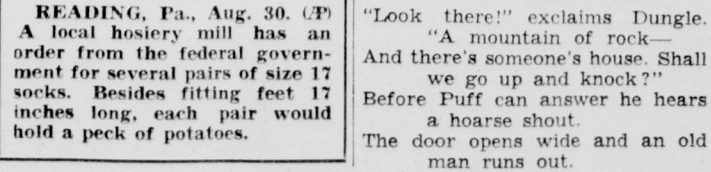

But we also know that some clothes are expensive even if the price looks low. A garment must be able to stand the punishment a boy gives it during school life. And it must be sold at a price the parents can pay. We have spent many years learning how to balance these requirements.

Parents are invited to see our new displays of Boys' School Wear. There are so many new things, new styles, new ideas, new improvements to increase wear and looks. It is COOL downstairs in the Boys' Store! Visit us this week!

Orange County Hostess at San Diego Fair Loyal to Her Home, Santa Ana

Attendance 50 Per Cent Tourist

Numerous Santa Anans Registering Daily At County Booth

Attendance at the San Diego California-Pacific International exposition seems to keep up on a percentage of one-half tourists, and Miss Lolita Mead, Orange county hostess at the fair and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Mead of North Main street, is very loyal to her county and to her home city of Santa Ana. It was learned today by reading a newsy letter from Miss Mead.

"I've sent numerous people who were going back home other ways by way of Santa Ana rather than the direct inland route, among whom are William A. Gutlin, New York City, who will stop in Santa Ana for some oranges; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hansen of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Murphy of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Loose of Reading, Pa.; Mrs. Mass; Sam Courson of Madison, N. H., etc.

From Far Points
"I have had signatures from Chinese Tibet, Berlin, Germany, Baghdad, Iraq, Australia, Canada, Palestine, London, Japan and all points in the United States and the Panama canal zone.

"Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Perry of Seminole, Okla., will stop to buy some honey in Santa Ana. Jimmie Rine of Bristol, Ind., was interested in the walnuts of Orange county. Miss Mary King and Miss Estelle King of Bristol, Ind., spent many minutes asking questions about Orange county and will drive through the orange groves.

"I have lots of visitors from Garden Grove, Tustin, Buena Park, Brea and San Clemente, also from Fullerton, Anaheim and Orange. "The Orange county exhibit attracts as much attention, if not more, than any other exhibit in the state building, except perhaps the map of San Francisco, which is valued at $50,000.

Governor Visits
"We have heard of any definite news as yet if the fair will be continued beyond the closing date of November 11. It all depends on the attendance in October.

"Governor Frank Merriam signed the register on July 23 and was greeted as a neighbor, since he lives in Long Beach.

"All of us in the building, attendants to the county exhibits, were introduced to all the Public Works officials at a reception in the state building three weeks ago. Justus Kraemer of Orange was in the receiving line. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover passed our exhibit very swiftly in a roller chair. San Diego county entertained all the hosts and hostesses and others at a breakfast recently, and we all gave three-minute speeches about our exhibits. Justus Kraemer would not say Los Angeles was in Orange county, etc. Since then the guides have pointed out Orange county as the home of the sweet, juicy Valencia orange and the richest county per cultivated acre in the world.

Miss Mead Busy
"I'm on page 214 in the register, with 27 names to the page, so you know I'm quite busy, and we started registering on June 6, with 50 per cent of the people who go by scared to death to put their name on any list in California.

Among recent Orange county signatures at the Orange county booth were: Dr. J. L. Beebe and Mrs. Beebe, Mrs. Maude Darling, C. H. Stevens, Allan B. Maxwell and Allan B. Maxwell Jr., Miss Kate Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, Thelma Akerling and Ruth Warren, Laguna Beach.

The following from Balboa, Newport Beach and Costa Mesa: Caffer Clark, W. H. McGraw, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Laury of Lido Isle, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Payne, Mrs. Homer Mellett, Fred Rowe, Mrs. O. D. Bland, Mrs. E. C. Owen and Lizzie Ghriert.

The following signed since August 20 from Santa Ana: E. H. Lohmann, W. A. Menton, Billy Menton, Mrs. W. C. Menton, Gertrude Cole, Mrs. Fred L. Cole, E. A. Bill, Louise Norton, Dale Griggs, Dorothy K. Griggs, E. J. Getty, H. E. Wahlberg, Marjorie Wahlberg, B. A. Wahlberg, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brownridge, Thelma Wilson, Mrs. William Whitehead, Mrs. S. W. H. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Kinglets, W. P. Wordmas, Mrs. W. P. Wordmas, C. E. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garstang, Holly Joy Jones, Mrs. R. C. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shearer, E. A. Cox, E. M. Shephard and Julia C. Shepard, Marguerite

Harden, Dallas Coleman, J. R. Harden, Marian Duncan, T. Harden, H. J. Huelskamp and family, Yvonne De Sutter and Antoine De Sutter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Magg, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sando, Mrs. R. S. Mrs. J. H. Gulick of 1702 Spurgeon street, who with her family came to Greenville when it was called Newport, in '87, now is 87 herself, and in accordance with family tradition, was honored with a gala picnic Wednesday evening in Anaheim park, on occasion of her 87th birthday anniversary.

The Gulick family has lived in Santa Ana since 1912. All Mrs. Gulick's children except one daughter, Mrs. William Wagner of Garden Grove, were present. The honoree was given many birthday remembrances, including a bouquet from the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war.

Sons and daughters, and their wives or husbands, who were present were Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Gulick and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Huntley of Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Gulick and daughters, Eleanor and Dorothy of Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gulick and children, Herbert and Viola of Anaheim; and Mark Gulick and Mrs. Lena Gulick Hewitt of Santa Ana.

Mrs. Frank Hilligass, a great granddaughter, presented Mrs. Gulick with the garden corsage which she wore at the picnic. Another great granddaughter, Shirley Heaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Lloyd Heaton of Costa Mesa, has the same birthday as her great grandmother, and she was a bridesmaid at her wedding at Costa Mesa while the "grownups" were partying at the park.

He was showered with beautiful gifts from his friends, including in miniature all forms of transportation: steamships, boats, automobiles and airplanes, as well as other gifts.

After the games refreshments were served from a long table set on the lawn and appointed in the Mickey Mouse motif. A large birthday cake, a present from "Grandma," was brought to the party, and a few young Kenneth were able to blow out the four lighted candles, much to the amusement of his friends.

When the refreshments of cake and ice cream had been served, a guest was presented with a balloon in the image of Mickey Mouse. Guests were: Bobbie Jean Thompson, Dorothy Thompson, Joan Kilkenny, Donald Tucker, Dorothea Leue, David Leue, Lorraine Morrison, Billy McConnell, Lucy Ann Minter, Mrs. Lou White, Robert Canfield, brother of Kenneth Lee. The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you consider it worthwhile for parents to insist on their children expressing themselves in correct English instead of using slang?

Mrs. Lena Hewitt: To try to teach children to use correct English rather than slang seems to me the only way to keep within the bounds of right speaking and express things directly. If we neither train young people to uphold the speech standard nor read well-written writings, the prediction that the English language will someday be shelved for a modern "language" will probably come true.

Mrs. E. J. Scott: I think good English should be urged for growing children; I taught my son not to use slang when he was young.

Mrs. A. W. Robinson: I think it's pretty hard nowadays to make children use correct English when slang is being so widely used. Of course, when they're young is the best time to train them to express themselves correctly, though.

Meyer Home Is Scene of Gay Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Meyer at 320 West Orange road was the scene of a happy party Wednesday afternoon when Mary Therese Meyer, youngest daughter of the home, was feted on her eighth birthday anniversary by her mother and by her eldest sister, Mrs. Floyd Montgomery.

The hostess-mother and daughter had created a green and yellow crepe paper canopy tied with streamers over the dining room table, and Mary Therese led her young playmates into the room in the dressed in a green and yellow birthday cake frosted in green with "Happy Birthday" and bordered by eight little yellow tapers. Green nutcrackers with Scotties on them, paper party hats as favors, clusters of zinnias and dahlias and crystal candlesticks holding yellow candles added a festive air to the scene.

A new bicycle was Mary Therese's birthday gift from her parents.

Invited guests in addition to the prize winners, were Carlo Jo Nick, Barbara Montgomery, June Koryon, Patricia Ann Sanders, Dorothy Osterkamp, Ruth Marie Lauderbach, Virginia Ross and Phyllis Kraft.

STATE'S FAIR WILL OPEN TOMORROW

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30.—Southern California will be represented with the most extensive displays in many years when the 81st annual California state fair opens tomorrow for 10 festive days and nights.

Official displays from six southern counties are supplemented by livestock, racing and educational entries which give complete representation to the entire southland.

County Has Exhibit

Citrus and sub-tropical fruits have been the feature of the colorful exhibits of Orange, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties. San Diego is picturing the attractions of its own world's fair.

Through the efforts of the Calavo Growers of California, the state's avocado exhibits are included in many of the county displays, and avocado ice cream has been made a new feature of the state fair menus.

Continuation schools of Los Angeles, San Diego, Long Beach, Pasadena and Glendale are exhibiting an interesting display of arts and crafts in the educational building. A feature of this building is the display of mechanical drawings and art posters from the Alhambra and National City High schools. The entire southern county school system has a complete exhibit of its activities.

Horses To Be Shown

Harness horses from leading California stables and a big influx of thoroughbreds from Caliente will add excitement to the racing program.

Mrs. Cecilia DeMille Calvin, Miss Marcorita Hellman and Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Scripps are among the south's entries in the night horse show program.

The Riviera polo team of Santa Monica will be one of the entrants in the daily polo tournament on the race track infield.

Editors from a score of Southern California newspapers will attend the annual California Press day luncheon which will be one of the opening day ceremonies tomorrow.

DENVER, Aug. 30. (P)—Mrs. Florence Miller looked at the man in amazement when he asked for a license to wed his present wife.

"I want to get a license in each of the 48 states and marry her 48 times," said the man. Mrs. Miller said dazedly she would seek legal advice, and the man wandered away, without leaving his name. He said he would be "back later."

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Mark Albery, who employs both Rex and Laurie Moore, has been told by Gavin Drake that Rex and Laurie are not married, as they had told him. The deception originated because it seemed necessary so that Rex might hold his job. Now Laurie is telephoning Rex that she will have dinner with Albery. The difficulty is that both Rex and Albery are in love with Laurie, and she is in love with Rex.

Chapter 29

ATLANTIC FLIGHT

"And I have a message from Mr. Albery," Laurie went on. "He wants us to go down to Fen Gratton for the week-end."

"I can't do that," Rex said shortly. "I've got my friend, Alec Wade, from New York, spending the day, Sunday. I told you. I can't put him off. He sails early in the week. You can go, all the same."

"Mr. Albery makes rather a point of it. He's got someone he wants you to meet."

"Can't help that," Moore's voice was almost rude. "All right, I'll tell Mr. Albery."

It was well after midnight when Laurie came in.

"Is Gladys back?" was Laurie's first question. It always was.

"Yes, and gone to bed. You certainly have been working late."

"I wasn't working all the time. It was so late when we finished that Mr. Albery took me to the Elvies to dinner, and we stayed on for the cabaret. It's an awfully good show."

Moore had been drinking strong black coffee in large cups, which was very bad for his nerves.

"Do you think it wise to run around with Albery the way you do?"

Laurie stiffened. "I don't know what you mean. I can't refuse to work late when it is important. It's my job. Mr. Albery offers to pay me overtime, but I won't take it. He has done enough for me—and for you."

"I'm not suggesting that he should pay for your company. You haven't got so far as that, I suppose," he retorted abruptly, with a steady glance from his grey eyes. "I merely wondered whether it was necessary for you to dine with him."

"You are insulting."

"I am only suggesting that, under the circumstances, it would be wise, for a little while, not to be seen about so much with Albery. I don't like the idea of my wife being talked about as a girl secretary her employer has taken a fancy to."

Laurie went crimson. "How dare you? What business is it of yours anyhow? I'm not your wife."

"You are supposed to be. You are living here with me. As far as anybody knows, we are a normal couple. Of course, it is no business of mine."

"I'd no idea you paid so much attention to appearances. She was quivering with indignation. 'I don't like looking a fool,' he answered brutally. 'And while you are supposed to be my wife, I'd rather you didn't get talked about.'

"I know who's been talking! she flashed. 'Mrs. Steele. She was at the Roma the other day when I was lunching with Mr. Albery to take some notes from him when he was only up for an hour or two. I saw her watching me. Of course, she's jealous, because she's crazy about you, and she thinks I am really your wife.'

It was the man's turn to grow red in the face. Laurie had hit the mark. Wanda Steele had suggested to him very delicately that his "dear little wife" was perhaps being a trifle indiscreet.

"I'm sick of it," Laurie went on, at white heat. "I'm going to quit tomorrow. You can say I left you—or anything else you like."

But the next day there was another turn to their affairs.

Rex Moore spent the morning with Albery at Fen Gratton, and came back late in the afternoon, to find Laurie packing her books.

"You can stop that," he said. "I'm off again. You'll be rid of me for a week or two. Albery wants me to try to lower the Atlantic record for the double crossing. He has heard that Bruce Morris is preparing secretly to make the flight, and he wants me to get in first. He says the Pacific can wait."

He was elated. He was going to unfold his wings again. He was good-humored, almost friendly.

"You don't need to turn out, do you?" he added, with a touch of compunction in his voice. "I'm sorry I ragged you yesterday."

She looked at him steadily. "You mean it would look bad if I left the flat? That it would be damaging to you?"

"You might wait until I come back—that's all I mean." He looked at her in the shamefaced way he had when he asked her to do anything, rather like a small boy who knows he is in the wrong.

"After all, I can't annoy you when I'm not here."

"All right," she said. Her voice was forbidding because she had to hide a little tremor in it. "When do you start?"

"Tomorrow night—for Ireland. The weather looks as if it will hold."

Laurie turned away, putting her books back on the shelves from which she had taken them.

His spirit was already in the air. He was not thinking of her. Rex Moore did not come back to the flat the next day until it was almost time for him to start. All day long he had been making his preparations at Albery's private air field.

He found a tempting meal laid out in the dining-room table, but Laurie was not in the room. She came out of his bedroom with the small haversack that he was going to take with him in her hand.

"Mrs. Budd is no packer," she said lightly. "So I packed your things myself. You'll have something to eat, won't you? I'm scrambling some eggs the way you like them, with mushrooms. I'll go and fix them now."

"Where is Mrs. Budd?" he asked.

"I sent her away. I didn't know how late you would be," she said angrily. "I can do all that myself."

"That's rather foolish," she retorted evenly. "I'm fond of cooking. Now, please, sit down and eat."

She poured him out a cup of coffee, with the thick cream that he liked on the top.

She ate very little herself. When he had finished the eggs, she offered him fruit and a special light sponge cake that she had made.

"They hardly spoke. Laurie seemed to have something on her mind."

"Is it dangerous—this Atlantic flight?" she said at last.

He laughed. "What ever put that into your head?"

"All long-distance flights must be dangerous."

"Do you know the most dangerous occupation in the world?" he asked, with the mocking smile at the back of his eyes. "The one with the greatest percentage of casualties? A plate-layer on a railway."

But Laurie was looking at him with a curious concentration. "Rex, you're not using this new fuel, are you?" she asked.

"What on earth do you know about that?" he countered. "I've had to do a lot of work in connection with it for Mr. Albery. It isn't safe, is it?"

He looked startled. "Has Albery talked to you about it? Why didn't you tell me before?"

"Because I know it's a secret. Mr. Albery asked me not to talk about it. He asked me if you had told anything, and I told him that you never discussed your profession with me. But I just wanted to know."

"Of course, I'm not using it. The tests aren't nearly satisfactory yet. What a funny girl you are! I say, I shall have to get a move on. Albery's car is coming to take me to the airfield. He's coming with me. I suppose you wouldn't like to come?"

"Oh, no," Laurie said sharply. "They got up and Rex Moore went to fetch his flying coat and helmet."

He found Laurie standing in the dining-room, just where he had left her. She turned a white face to him.

"I'm sure—it's dangerous!" she said under her breath.

"Why do you harp on that, Laurie?" he asked. And then came a reaction so violent that his tanned face actually turned pale. "I don't understand," he said slowly. "It can't be that you care? I mean—what becomes of me? You hate me, don't you for coming back and messing up your life?"

"Yes, I hate you," she said hysterically.

MUFFIN RECIPE OLD STANDBY

Who likes muffins? Everybody likes them, of course.

There is a good old standby that comes in handy when you want muffins for tea. It is a simple, quick-as-a-jiffy recipe that even the children can make. Best of all, this recipe has a number of delightful variations that make the muffins especially suitable for various occasions.

Mix together 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup melted butter, and combine with dry ingredients. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full. How Counties In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl Lee Kelly has had prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

BUTTE COUNTY

Created Feb. 18, 1850. This is one of the original 27 counties of the state, and derived its name from that wonderful topographical formation, now known as the Marysville or Sutter Buttes, which lie in Sutter county and which were named by Michel La Frambeau of the Hudson Bay Company, who visited the northern part of California as a voyager and trapper in the year 1829. The word "butte" is purely a French word, and signifies "a small hill or mound of earth detached from any mountain range."

It was back in 1820 when the first real exploration of Butte was undertaken, and here and throughout Sacramento valley trappers of the Hudson Bay Company and others worked from 1825 to 1840.

The next 10 years witnessed first settlements of white men, which increased rapidly after the discovery of gold on the Feather river. At the Cape claim near Oroville 142 pounds of gold were taken out in one day and the largest nugget ever found in America and the second largest in the world was discovered near Magalia, east of Oroville.

Butte is a land of diversified agriculture and Northern California's chief orange producer. Rice production now is one of the county's most important industries. Irrigation is undertaken on an extensive scale, the department of commerce announcing in its 1930 irrigation census that Butte had 68,219 acres under irrigation. Northern California's first orange tree was planted at Bidwell Bar in 1856 and it still produces regular crops and is used in propagating root stock. Population: 34,093. Area: 1628 square miles.

WHOLE WHEAT OR BRAN—Substitute 1 cup whole wheat flour and 1 cup white flour for the 2 cups flour in the sour milk muffins. Brown sugar improves the flavor.

YOUNG JOE IS NOT ONE FACING CHARGE

Although the town of Atwood has room to grow, still it's large enough to have two men with the same name—Joe Morales.

One Joe Morales is about 33 years of age and is in the county jail awaiting trial on a manslaughter charge. The other Joe Morales is 17 years old. According to Lucas Lucio, local representative of the Mexican consul at Los Angeles, the younger Morales is worried because his friends think he is the man involved in the criminal case.

The younger Morales is not involved in the manslaughter case, Mr. Lucio said, pointing out that he lives in Atwood while the man who is charged with the crime lives two miles southwest of Atwood.

The charge against the older Morales grew out of an automobile accident in which R. C. Gordon, Anaheim truck driver, was killed several weeks ago.

The elder Morales was chamber of commerce secretary at Ponca City for 16 years, while his son has been engaged in the newspaper business there.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips plan to take a month's trip, while seeking a new location.

Sale of the Brea Progress, for the past five years published by Jack Phillips, was announced today.

The elder Sarchet was chamber of commerce secretary at Ponca City for 16 years, while his son has been engaged in the newspaper business there.

Wide Distinction Between a Home and Mere Housing

Realization that one gains
nothing by renting. The thrill of ownership, the real desire for a home. Protection against the next depression which is sure to follow, as Real Estate has taken less shrinkage than your stock or bond investments. More families have started on the road to financial independence through home ownership than in any other way. Labor and material are low, making this an EXCELLENT TIME for home building.

CITRUS GROWERS STUDY

A GROUP of citrus growers in the Anaheim community has the right idea. They have organized a study club for the purpose of finding out the "why" of their marketing problems. Among other things, they hope to find answers to the following:

- Can greater market returns to the grower be realized? If not, why?
- Are rail rates high beyond reason, and, if so, what can be done about it?
- Are auction practices favorable to the grower?
- Are production and packing house costs too high? If so, what can be done about it?
- Are retail practices conducive to the greatest consumption of citrus fruit and is the system fair as it affects both grower and retailer?
- Are salaries of marketing agency officials too high and can adjustments be made?
- How can the surplus problem be solved? Is the juice business a menace to the sale of the fruit itself?

These are just a few matters the Anaheim growers would like to know more about. There are countless other details of the business on which they would like to have more light.

The encouraging feature of the group's program is the announcement that the move is not the result of a spirit of revolt against existing conditions. The growers, like all good business men, want to know their business. It is largely a matter of taking stock, of finding a certain road to success, if such is possible. Our only suggestion is:

Keep the trouble-makers and the chiselers out.

WASTED INDIGNATION

VIRTUALLY nothing congress has done for the past six months has pleased more than 17 persons, and what this country needs is a national indignation administration. The way things are now, there is an overproduction and you can't get ten cents a page for the stuff.

All the rich are mad because they're afraid they're going to get soaked and everyone else is mad because they hope to be rich but will get soaked if they do. The republicans are mad because the democrats have a $4,800,000 campaign fund and the democrats are mad because, up to now, they haven't been able to use it.

Indignation causes high blood pressure and it's reckoned if all the excess pressure in America today could be put to work, the government wouldn't have to build any power dams. Senator Wheeler's pressure alone is 205 pounds, and is anything done about it? No! Senator Borah has 198 pounds of pressure and it's all wasted. Terrible!

Indignation ought to be co-ordinated, like everything else. One day, everybody would be indignant about pork chop prices and would go out, under federal supervision, to exhort lady hogs to do their stuff. Next day would be tax indignation day—and so on, and so forth.

Politics being politics, the country has very little chance of becoming indignation-free for a year or more. Something ought to be done about it.

WATCH ALBERTA

ALBERTA, a Canadian province bigger than California and Oregon combined, but with only 600,000 population, is to try out a social credit scheme.

Its people have elected the necessary legislators and are to put their program into effect soon. The result will be interesting to watch.

Under the social credit scheme there will be no dole. Work of some kind or another will be offered everyone. Every month, a "dividend" of $25 will be paid each worker, though this, the plan's sponsors say, will require no new money.

Alberta is a farming section, few industries, no large cities. There is some coal mining and oil production; cattle herds range some parts.

It is well that certain governmental units experiment with new social systems frequently. That is the only way to tell whether they will work—or, at least, work better than the present method. If they don't work, comparatively few people are hurt and the rest benefit by example. If they do work, it will not be long before they spread. Nobody understands money and credit, but a lot of people think they do. It seems impossible to forecast accurately what will happen if a new system is adopted. The only way to find out is to try it.

The United States will watch, interestedly, as Alberta goes ahead with her scheme.

Another thing to remember is that what one nation did 50 or 100 years ago in the way of imperialistic brigandage is no excuse for another nation doing it now.

STILL TOO MUCH NOISE

THINGS must be getting back to normal, because people are starting to worry again about noise.

Mayor La Guardia of New York and a League for Less Noise, Inc., are trying to take some of the clamor out of life. One thing they would like to do is banish automobile horns. So would we. In some old world cities it is a crime to blast the welkin with a horn during certain hours.

Worst offender is the visitor who drives up outside the house he is to visit and then plays a 10-minute fandango on the auto horn instead of getting out and ringing the bell. That pest should be put into Dr. Willard's freezing solution for at least 10 years.

Probably it is asking too much to have horns abolished altogether. But it would be better if they could be. Anything that reduces the noise level is welcome.

Thoughts while strolling: The first time you turned the light of an electric torch in your mouth.

What a red cheeks! Lily Pons sounds like a peg-legged man coming up wooden steps. Top in martial off-the-track flying—the Tommy Manville. Top in recent books: "Everything is Thunder."

Look alike: Fred Knowles and Jesse Livermore. Most original slang: "I should worry!" and "Aint we got fun?"—because they invented a new syntax. No sight of Fanny Ward lately. So they are pulling down the Trocadero in Paris. Simile: "As irregular as French verbs."

Ask your right hand dinner partner what Logistia means. But take care he isn't a West Pointer. Electric razors somehow sound cruel. Best of all names for a clipper ship—The Flying Cloud. Who remembers when they used to name locomotives? The way crowds turn to gaze at a pug dog. Only way to have a thin umbrella: Buy a cane-umbrella and throw the sheath away. Ogden Nash is a brief cash addict, too. For a revised Dante's Inferno: A man packing two too many books enough for another left over. And the baggage man calling to hurry! No more great stars such as Bernhard, Duse.

Autobiographer's dilemma: What'll I do about the gals? No one can touch off "strictly Broadway" applause like Belle Baker. J. Ham Lewis and Wendell Dodge could swap whiskers without changing their looks. Memory feat: Recalling instantly the book one wants most to read in a big book store.

I have a bookish friend who likes to snoop around the big toy stores for the latest inventions. His most recent report concerns an automobile speed boat four inches long. To make it go, you only squirt in a couple of drops of water and it goes like fun. Probably sodium metallic. Heats the water in a little steam turbine.

Height of indifference: Basil Woon once saw an American trying to read the sport page of his home newspaper by the light of rockets bursting in air at one of those gorgeous fireworks exhibits at Versailles.

The marriage of the handsome artist Peter Arno will take out of circulation one of the town's most sought beaux. Since his marriage to the vivacious Lois Long went on the rocks, Arno has been playing the field and his dinner companion choices ranged from the pick of the chorus beauties to the budding of the debutantes. He was reported engaged to a different charmer almost every week.

A correspondent spikes the almost generally accepted story that Neyssa McMein was born Moran and that her last name was a numerical selection. He declares she was the daughter of Harry McMein, capable night editor of the famous Quincy, Ill. Quizzed that as a little girl she was known as Margie McMein. On the other hand "Who's Who" lists the artist as McMein, Neyssa (Moran); daughter of Harry Moran and Isabelle Lee (Parker) M. Miss McMein's husband, John Baragwanath, incidentally, has just finished a book on his experiences as an engineer in far places.

The best known eating place for the wise of Chinatown is a nameless dinky cellar at 2015 Pell street. It can serve only 40 and makes no play for the slumming trade. The proprietor, a blinking, smiling Chin with a high pitched voice, is known as "Hello." He was once a part of Charlie Brown's establishment in Limehouse. His three Chinese waiters are called, with no attempt at levity, Friedman, Izzy and Moe.

I dropped by the Doyers street Mission—the old Chinese theater—where Tom Noonan so long salvaged an occasional lost soul from the sluggish wreckage that seeped in his meeting house. An intangible something seemed gone. The congregation sang "Washed in the Blood of the Lamb" in the same cracked voices but without the old fervor. The "lost sheep" still miss their shepherd. Noonan had been one of them, a plug ugly convict, drunkard and thief. He had the compassion that seems to come only to those who have plumbed the depths. It may be a long time before the Bowery finds another Bishop.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—There was an unadvertised conference in the office of hustling Harry Hopkins the other day that may result in something finally being done to galvanize the languishing $4,000,000,000 Work-Relief program.

The WPA chief had a group of his field agents in to give confidential reports on what was taking place in their sections. The pictures they painted were very gloomy.

Chief causes for delay in getting men to work, they reported, were:

1. The administration's policy of trying to force states and cities to pay for part of work-relief projects. Many communities are marking time, convinced that the federal government will be compelled to "come across."
2. Widespread confusion and undercover sabotaging between the old FERA agencies and the newly organized WPA units. Social workers in the former are fearful of losing their jobs, and are throwing monkey wrenches into the WPA machinery.
3. Protracted delays in getting federal funds even after allocation by the President. Responsibility for this was placed on the shoulders of Comptroller General McCarl, who sometimes took weeks to approve projects. Hopkins promised early relief on this last complaint. He promised states and localities a steady flow of funds once their projects were authorized. On the other points he was less definite.

Reason for almost any governor, past and present, look sick. Winant is 46 years old, tall, Lincolnshire, republican, the richest man in the state, married to a wealthy woman, and founder of the Stable Money association.

In New Hampshire he is called a "sucker." Almost anyone with a hard-luck story can get money out of him. Now, as head of the social security board, he will administer old age pensions and social insurance in an effort to eliminate the human suffering which once touched his heart.

ASK ME ANOTHER

AT LEAST one new deal experiment is flourishing like the proverbial green bay tree. It is the United States information service, established last year as a part of the national emergency council for the specific purpose of answering questions about the numerous alphabet agencies.

The very first query received had nothing to do with governmental affairs.

A young lady from the west wrote in asking for the date and birthplace of Columist Walter Winchell. Requests for information about the famed Broadway commentator are being constantly received by the information service.

Under the able direction of quiet, efficient Miss Harriet M. Root, the USIS has established the record of never being stumped for an answer. That this is some achievement is indicated by the following few of the many brain-twisters received daily:

From a bride: "I have been married two weeks and would appreciate your advising me how to budget my expenses."

From a college student: "Please forward me a copy of the Declaration of Independence with all the latest changes."

From a southern state: "Please give me the names of the southern states that have legalized companionate marriage. Accept my anticipated thanks."

From the District of Columbia: "Is there such a thing as automatic drink?"

From a heart-broken wife: "Is there any cure for drunkenness? My husband has become a victim of drink."

From a city dweller: "I am looking for information about goats, preferably, 'Should goats be despised?'"

From a man with ideas: "Please tell me where I can get some of this 'free money.' By that I mean money that you can borrow and don't have to pay back."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

REPLIES to a questionnaire sent to Michigan colonists in Alaska by Representative Albert J. Engel showed the settlers about evenly divided in their opinion of the treatment they have received. Some letters had nothing good to say, others were enthusiastic, even laudatory. . . . South Carolina's ex-Senator Coleman Blease recently attended an anti-new deal rally staged by Georgia's choleric Governor Gene Talmadge. He shouted: "The Lord must be with the democratic party. If He were not, there would have been three vacancies on the supreme court. Roosevelt would have filled them with men of his choice, and the country and the party would have been ruined." . . . After all his breath-taking about "share the wealth," Huey Long was in New York giving interviews about his presidential campaign plans when the tax bill reached the senate floor. Incidentally, Huey's gesturing about throwing his hat into the ring is viewed by his intimates as just so much ballyhoo. The Louisiana has been off the front pages of late and he sent up his balloon to get back into the headlines.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—Here is an interesting, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Federal Power—It Stills the Voice of Freedom

The first session of the 74th congress comes to an end after nearly eight months of legislative milling around. The tumult and the shouting die away as the sweating "servants" of the people gather up their baggage and make a rush for ticket offices. Silence settles down the capitol dome from the pinnacle of which the Greek goddess showers her protection and benediction.

The windjamming is now transferred from legislative halls to the four corners of the country and the great game of accusing and defending and lambasting goes on apace. The last hectic hours of the session were devoted to filibustering to prevent adjournment and to vain attempts to attach riders to deficiency bills. The cotton clique tried to peg the price of the staple at 12 cents and to gain support of the wheat interests by fixing a minimum price of wheat at 90 cents. Huey Long talked himself to a frenzy until the Garner gavel fell at midnight and everything was over except the final appraisal of results.

The administration's program in the main, rode through the mill with no serious setback Roosevelt suffered only one clearcut defeat—the world court ratification. Two months ago something like a revolt loomed in the legislative ranks, but adroit steam-roller tactics suppressed opposition.

In recent weeks the administration's program had clear sailing.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE.—Here is an interesting, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Federal Power—It Stills the Voice of Freedom

Never had a congressional session been so wholly obedient to White House demands. Never had congress so completely abdicated its legislative functions. Never were the people's elected representatives reduced so nearly to the status of rubber stamps.

The federal scheme of government does not admit such dominance of one branch of the government over any other branch. History gives abundant evidence of the dangers to free government which lies in anything less than a fairly even balance. The framers of the constitution sensed the peril. They knew from bitter experience how unchecked executive power easily runs into despotism. Also, that unrestrained parliamentary power can pervert liberty.

Likewise, the judiciary can become subservient and entrenched against public policy. They saw clearly, and who sees it more clearly today or whose notion is wiser today?—that the three branches of government must co-ordinate, mutually independent, although associated, in a mere attempt to still the voice of freedom and lull a weakening people to a false notion of security.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

After some delay from the Republican side, and an immediate response from the Democratic side, I have now in my possession an official list of the county central committees of both parties. No ulterior purpose involved. Just wanted to know who they are and where they are. Might want an interview sometime. Presidential election in the offing, and lot of folk going to talk to me about politics. What I think about it is not important, and what many of the other fellows think about it is equally important.

Now that's over let's get back to Assessor Jim Sleeper going hunting with son Claude. The rendezvous was not revealed, but inasmuch as the county tax rate has been fixed a decision is in order. My information is that should Daddy Sleeper prove to be a poor hunter, son Claude is going to take him out to the Santa Ana Country club to see if he can make a hole in one.

Won't be long now before the Literary Digest will tell us who is going to be elected President. All they are waiting for are the nominations.

What I want to know is who sent Horace Benjamin and Ed Backs over from Anaheim to invite me on a fishing trip. I'm suspicious. It's an Anaheim party, and Santa Ana having no parks causes me to wonder why I should be included in any group unless they want to make some uncomfortable comparisons. Anyway, fishing is not one of my weaknesses.

Frank West says he would invite me to attend a meeting of the Lions club, but they don't sell half-fare tickets.

Back in Holly, Cal., the population moved onto a high hill. About three feet of water wanted to occupy the city, so the residents moved up. At Syracuse, Kan., a cloudburst sent a 18-inch flood into the streets. Other sections of the world are reporting weather and war troubles. When I encounter curb-crabbers who find fault with almost everything and everybody it occurs to me they lack the common sense to do as I do. I have a few bugs in our orange groves, but we are allowed to kill 'em. The ones on the street corners are protected by law.

Charity is not a solution of our economic ills. Remunerative employment is the only cure for business depressions.

Friend called this a. m. to discuss an oil investment. He had a dividend check to show for it. When he first bought the interest he turned approximately $42 into a month. It has now disappeared to about seventy cents every three months. He has a mathematical problem he wants to submit after reading notice of a reduction in the price of corn from 25 to 50 cents a barrel. When does he get his next dividend?

It looks like God would have to settle our water problem.

Judge John Mitchell, chairman of the Orange county democratic central committee, and Sam Nau, in sympathy with him, complimented my speech at the Cotton barbecue. They said it was a convincing argument. Now I'm disturbed as to whether I attended the meeting, and if I did how did I get there, and if I did get there what did I say? After investigating the facts are these: I was expected to attend and deliver a speech, provided a place could be found for the program for my remarks. Not being able to attend the judge and Sam gave the speech for me. That is why it was a great address. Now I'll retire to make room for some other liar.

Bob Fernandez sends one of the boys over to fix up my typewriter so it will slide smoother. Now if he can get it so it will do my thinking for me I'll take a vacation if someone will buy my ticket and supply expense money. What! No sale?

Have had a talk with my attorney and he says for me to pay no attention to Mussolini. He says I don't have to go to Abyssinia, but I ought to.

Paul Slavin and this department are agreed that there isn't any sense having another war. That there is enough land to keep us all alive if everybody will work and plant and harvest, instead of quarreling and fighting and shooting. After all the human race is just the custodian, and don't own a darn foot of ground. In the final analysis everything will revert to the Creator and your title won't amount to a tinker's tink. It is incredible that nations will refuse to profit by a conflict so recent in its appalling material and physical destruction. Wars don't settle anything, anyway. A victory only creates a smoldering volcano which breaks out later on. Disputes are not settled by the sword or cannon. That's the end of the Slavin-Skrabbles sermon.
